Tiny Abandoned Baby Fighting for Life

Hours-old premature baby in Jubilee incubator

A tiny premature baby was fighting for its life early today in an incubator at Royal Jubilee Hospital after it was abandoned in Emmanuel Baptist Church, 1900 Fernwood, on Friday.

The baby, a girl, weighed only one pound, 10 ounces when rushed to hospital by Garden City Ambulance driver John Johnson.

It had apparently been born only two or three hours previous to its admittance to hospital at 3 p.m. It was estimated the child was at least two months premature.

Unidentified

The ambulance received a call at about 2:30 p.m. from an unidentified girl, who was apparently phoning from a booth at Belmont and Pandora.

"The girl told us to get out to the church there had been an accident," Mr. Johnson said.

"We went up to the side door, on Gladstone, and there was the baby just inside the vestry door. The attendant, John Weavers, spotted it.

Small Blanket

"It was just a little tiny thing wrapped up in a small blanket, but it was still alive. 'I'll tell you, we got it to the hospital as fast as we could, with lights and siren going all the way.'"

Doctors could not predict whether or not the child would live.

Terrible Thing

Hospital administrator George Masters said "it would be a terrible thing if the baby died. The girl could have come to the hospital, and nobody need have known."

City detectives were anxious to obtain any information in the case, and asked persons who may have seen a young woman at the church or at the phone booth to get in touch with them.

U.S. Halts Bombing to Survey Toll

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has stopped the bombing of North Viet Nam pending an intensive reconnaissance survey of damage done and further top-level policy decisions, the Washington Post says in a dispatch from Saigon.

This was disclosed by Rear Admiral Edward C. Outlaw, commander of the 7th Fleet carrier task force, during a visit aboard his flagship, Coral Sea, in the South China Sea, the Post says.

A two-day lull in air strikes against North Viet Nam had stirred speculation in Washington that the Johnson administration may be reinforcing its new bid to the North Vietnamese Communist leadership to begin talks on ending the war.

Santo Domingo UN STEPS IN WAR STEPPED UP

From UPI, AP

Heavy firing was reported by U.S. military sources in Santo Domingo Friday night, where the Dominican rebels began a sharp increase in attacks on American installations.

(In Washington, the state department described the situation as "dangerous.")

Heavy machine gun and bazooka firing broke out across the Ozama River, apparently between rebels on the west bank and U.S. paratroopers on the east shore.

VERGE OF COLLAPSE

As the shaky truce in Santo Domingo seemed near the verge of collapse, the following events were taking place Friday:

● In New York, the Security Council of the United Nations called for a strict cease-fire in the Dominican Republic. The council voted to dispatch a representative to Santo Domingo to see that it was carried out. Two previous cease-fires, arranged first by the Papal Nuncio and then by the Organization of American States, have been only partially observed.

U.N. Secretary-General Thant said his military adviser, Maj. Gen. Indarjit Rikhye of India, would leave for Santo Domingo immediately.

● Honduran and Costa Rican troop contingents for an Inter-American security force arrived by air in Santo Domingo during the night.

Where Did It Come From?

Killer's Rope Analysed

RCMP has been getting strong analysis would disclose the rope's original use.

No time of death was established at the coroner's inquest Thursday, but stomach content samples have been sent to the Vancouver city analyst in an attempt to pinpoint a time.

Whether the girl knew her assailant and went with him, or was forced by threats to the spot where she was found murdered, appears to be a tossup to police.

Why the killer was carrying the rope is a puzzle to police.

High on the police check-list in a search for new information are cars in the area and customers of the Six-Mile House beer parlor on the night, and area residents.

Inspector G. M. Mackay said Friday police were hoping that

Duncan Doctor:

Fallout In Smokes

DUNCAN (CP)—Dr. C. A. Colman-Porter, a Vancouver Island scientist, claims lung cancer is caused by radioactivity in tobacco, rather than nicotine or tar.

Dr. Colman-Porter, a teacher at Shuswap Lake Boys' School, says tests he has conducted show a link between fallout from nuclear tests, tobacco and cancer.

In a paper presented to the Chemical Institute of Canada he said his tests on 10 popular brands of cigarettes showed American cigarettes made from tobacco nearest nuclear test areas had the highest radioactivity.

Canadian brands had a lower count, and British tobacco the lowest.

In 1964, two Harvard scientists, Dr. Edward P. Radford and Dr. Vilma R. Hunt, said radioactivity could be a cause of lung cancer.

Canadian Art In Auction By Satellite

LONDON (CP)—A collection of early Canadian drawings is among the properties up for bids on both sides of the Atlantic in the world's first auction sale by television satellite May 24.

The sale, to be staged in the famed auction hall of Sotheby and Co. in London, will appear on television here and be relayed via the Early Bird space satellite to an American TV network.

The Canadian collection includes a volume of views of waterfalls drawn by Lt.-Col. Cookburn, a sketchbook of Canadian scenes, circa 1830, and 50 pencil and watercolor drawings of Canada by J. Roebuck, 1828.

Black Muslim Found Dead

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (UPI)—The head of the Black Muslim movement in Winston-Salem, Louis X, apparently committed suicide Friday night after shooting two other Negroes.

Long Prison Terms Asked for Baptists

HAVANA (AP)—Long prison terms were asked Friday for two United States Baptist missionaries accused of spying in Cuba for the United States.

Dr. Herbert Caudill, 61, of Omega, Ga., head of the Western Cuba Baptist Convention, denied spying. The other American on trial is Caudill's son-in-law, Rev. James David Fite, 31. They were arrested last month.

The prosecution asked a 30-year sentence for Caudill and 18 years for Fite. Sentences ranging from nine to 36 years were asked for the 32 Cuban Baptists also on trial.

Luis Manuel Aguiro Serrano, 40, a Cuban preacher, testified that an organization headed by Caudill was formed inside the church to fight Communism.

Caudill, for 35 years a resident of Cuba admitted illegally trading U.S. dollars for Cuban pesos to Cubans who needed foreign currency to get out of the country. Under questioning, Caudill said he exchanged about $300,000 for pesos. He denied making a profit.

'To Cope with U.S. Blackmail'

China: Another Bomb

From CP, UPI

China announced the successful explosion Friday of its second nuclear device, saying it had to develop nuclear weapons "for the purpose of coping with the nuclear blackmail and threats of the United States."

The official New China news agency reported the test took place "over" its remote western provinces.

The agency did not elaborate on the word "over," but nuclear physicists, including Dr. Ralph Lapp of the United States, had speculated that the second device would be dropped from a plane.

China is conducting necessary nuclear tests within defined limits and is developing the nuclear weapon for the purpose of coping with the nuclear blackmail and threats of the United States and for the purpose of abolishing all nuclear weapons," the agency said.

It called the test "another important achievement scored by the Chinese people in strengthening their national defence and safeguarding the security of their motherland and world peace."

In Ottawa, External Affairs Minister Martin said Friday the explosion of China's second nuclear test was no surprise, but Canada received it with "regret and concern."

"We in Canada deplore this further contamination of the earth's atmosphere, which has taken place in the face of opposition from public opinion and governments in all parts of the world," he said.

At its Nevada test site Friday, the United States conducted a weapons-related underground nuclear test of low intermediate yield.

Sell Canadians a Share

Overcome U.S.-Control Fears—Gordon

ALBION, Mich. (CP)—Finance Minister Walter Gordon set out Canada's "deeply rooted" fears of growing foreign control of the Canadian economy before an American audience Friday night.

Among measures he set out to overcome this was a suggestion that U.S. and European companies with large subsidiaries in Canada—including such companies as General Motors—offer voluntarily to turn over to Canadians "a 25 per cent participation with the promise that another 25 per cent or so would be offered to them in, say, 10 or 15 years."

He emphasized that such an offer would be taken up at current market values.

"We are not asking for any handouts."

In his speech to the Albion College regional meeting of the American Assembly, Mr. Gordon also spelled out steps taken by the government to ensure Canadian control over financial institutions and communications media.

"Troublesome and perplexing" problems arise from the high percentage of foreign ownership of important sectors of the Canadian economy, Mr. Gordon said.

"About 80 per cent of Canadian manufacturing industry is now controlled abroad, the predominant ownership being in the United States. Foreign control is even more pronounced in mining and smelting and in the petroleum and natural gas industries. The fact is that Canadians own a smaller share of their industry than the nationals of any other major industrialized country."

Mr. Gordon admitted the many benefits such investment has brought. It had enabled Canada to diversify the economy faster than would have been possible, opened the door for Canada to draw on the fruits of U.S. research and development programs and technical and managerial skills.

"Obviously, in a material sense, Canadians are 'better off for it.'"

Canada still needs foreign investment, Mr. Gordon said, "but we are becoming extremely concerned about the character of the capital inflow and the ownership pattern it is generating."

This capital is concentrated mainly in equity and results from re-investment of retained earnings and depreciation al-

Word Whiz Wows Jury

PRESTON, England— "You're drunk," police told company director Thomas Waring after his car collided with a truck near here. "Robbed," snapped Waring, 60. "Listen to this . . .

"Swim Sam swim Sam, swim, show them you are some swimmer. Swim like the white swan swim. Swim like the snow-like swan. Six sharp, squelching sharks are going to snap your limbs. A well-swum swim is a swim well swum. So swim Sam swim."

Police charged him with drunken driving anyway. But a jury ruled any man who could say a tongue-twister like that must be sober—and found him innocent.

SPOKANE, Wash.—One of most enthusiastic spectators at Spokane's Torchlight parade was 3½-year-old Eugene Flesinger, who perched on a cue and ching to radio antenna, providing photographers with facial expression that told all. Parade opened Spokane's annual Lilac Festival.

GLASLYN, Sask.— Alfred Irvine Lake, one of nine men charged with non-capital murder of 20-year-old Saulteaux Indian Allen Thomas, has been committed for trial. The other eight were freed for lack of evidence. Thomas died after a raid on an Indian camp in May, 1963.

NEW YORK— Frances Perkins, 83, secretary of labor under the administration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, has died. She was the first woman cabinet member in United States history.

MOSCOW— Popular young poet Yevgeny Yevtushenko, who fell into momentary disfavor in 1963, is flying to Italy for a series of poetry recitals.

Kennedy Memorial: 'Britons Still Mourn'

RUNNYMEDE, ENGLAND

(UPI) — Queen Elizabeth dedicated a memorial Friday to the late President John F. Kennedy, for whom "my people still mourn." The president's widow sat at the Queen's side, seemingly moved to the edge of tears.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk accepted the white stone monument and the acre of green meadowland surrounding it on behalf of the American people. Mr. Rusk, said its site near the island where the Magna Carta was signed shows Britain and the United States share "a common dedication to the cause of human liberty."

WIDOW'S THANKS

Mrs. Kennedy did not speak at the dedication, but afterwards issued a statement thanking the British people "for their magnificent gift of a piece of British land in memory of my husband."

She said British literature and leadership shaped the late president's life "as did no other part of his education. In a sense he returns today to the tradition from which he sprang."

"I thank you for making it possible for me to be here today with my children. One day they will realize what it means to have their father honored at Runnymede."

Denounced at UN

China's Latest Blast 'Nuclear Blackmail'

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — India, Japan and Nationalist China Friday condemned the latest nuclear explosion by the Chinese Communists.

Indian delegate V. C. Privedi told the U.N. disarmament commission that the explosion of Peking's second nuclear device is "an attack on humanity."

Japanese ambassador Akira Matsui found it "an irony of fate that just as we are even now discussing measures to avoid nuclear holocausts, this one country should defy our efforts."

BLACKMAIL FEARED

Ambassador Yu Chi Hsueh, deputy chief of the Nationalist Chinese delegation, said: "These tests will only serve as a means of blackmail for the Chinese Communists in their attempt to dominate the neighboring countries and other countries of the world."

Meanwhile, in Moscow, Premier Kossygin said he doubted the explosion of an atomic device by China was intended as "nuclear blackmail."

LITTLE DANGER

But he added: "It is well known that the Soviet Union is against the proliferation of nuclear weapons. No sane person would use these weapons."

In Washington Dr. Lester Machta, chief fallout specialist of the U.S. weather bureau, said the fallout is not expected to present any significant health hazards anywhere in the world.

Learn to pour beer—no hands.

A dramatic Beermanship trick, revealed by Molson Canadian's brewmaster.

1 To perform this amazing trick you need a "tulip" glass, like this one, and a bottle of Molson Canadian (the light beer that's all beer).

2 Before starting, flex your fingers. This looks very professional to your audience. Keeps 'em on edge.

3 With one smooth motion—tilt the bottle upside-down into the glass. If you get nervous and rattle the bottle against the glass, you're in trouble.

4 Now, take your hand away. The beer will pour itself.

5 It won't overflow, so relax. Play it cool. Open a couple more Canadian. Pay no attention to the startled gasps of your flourish here, guests.

Now take the bottle out and "top up" the glass. It's always more Canadian. Pay no attention to good Beermanship to use a little to the startled gasps of your flourish here, guests.

Well, it might, once in every ten tries. Might mean your beer isn't quite cool enough. Keep trying.

Hogue Had $35,000 in Bank

VANCOUVER (UPI) — Vancouver police officials Friday refused to comment on bank accounts totalling more than $35,000 in the names of former Constable Leonard Hogue and his wife.

Hogue had been under suspicion in the $1,200,000 robbery from Canadian Pacific Merchandise Services at the time he shot and killed his wife and six children then committed suicide.

In addition to the bank accounts, Hogue was paying $150 a month toward the mortgage on his $26,000 home. He also owned a summer lot at Hatfield Lake, and held 10 acres of land in suburban Coquitlam. A second house was registered in Mrs. Hogue's name. Hogue earned $333 a month working as a lock-up in the city jail.

Risk of Ruin

CANADA'S SHIPBUILDING representatives will meet Minister of Industry Charles M. Drury next Wednesday when, it is supposed, the federal government's policy for the allocation of contracts will be discussed, if not made final. The all-important question, as far as western shipbuilders are concerned, is whether all contracts shall be on a competitive basis or on the old system of regional bidding. At the moment it appears the government favors a competitive system.

If that is so it would be a severe blow to West Coast yards and to the British Columbia economy. For the West Coast wage rate, higher by more than $1 an hour, the additional overhead, higher employee fringe benefits and a disparity in freight costs put B.C. in an impossible position competitively.

For example, the approximately 2,000,000 man-hours required for construction of a destroyer-escort immediately imposes a better than $2,000,000 handicap on western bidders.

The shipyards themselves favor the idea of regional contracting, heretofore in force. It has meant, in effect, that a certain proportion of naval construction would be allocated to the west and that competitive bidding for this share of business would be between coast yards only. The government says this is not economical. It wants to award contracts where the cost will be least.

This sounds like good business, and it is, of course, possibly true that it is politically expedient to award contracts to eastern shipbuilders.

But is it good economy to risk the ruin of the West Coast shipbuilding industry? For one thing this is an important component of the national defence system. In time of crisis the nation would need every facility for urgent ship construction. It would be a grave loss indeed if the West Coast yards, with their splendid record of efficiency and quality production were unable to gear themselves to meet an emergency.

Is there any choice other than competitive or regional contracting? Possibly. The government would be wise to examine some system, which, recognizing the disparity in building costs between the east and west of Canada, would in some way compensate the West Coast yards while putting the contract bidding on a competitive basis. For example, if it should be ascertained that the overall costs in the west were 10 per cent above those on the St. Lawrence, then a corrective margin could be allowed the B.C. bidder.

In effect it would be a subsidy. But it could save the industry from possible paralysis and deterioration, protect the jobs of hundreds of skilled men, and assure the continuing efficiency of a vital arm of our national defence system.

Pity the H.W.s

FOR ONCE THOSE MASTERS of abbreviating the word and shortening the phrase—the newspaper headline writers—have been stumped. They can find no wholly acceptable or satisfactory way to diminish the proper name of the Dominican Republic.

Some have attempted to use Dom. Rep. in their journals—but this can be too easily confused with such sterling people as Dominion Representatives, Domestic Repatriates and Domiciled Republicans. Therefore color it unsatisfactory.

Others have tried using just the initials D. R. to identify the country in question. But again the same problem has arisen with the added hazard of being offensive to such organizations as the Daughters of the Revolution, the Desert Rats and the Dublin Railway.

Then there are those who try to cut down the full title to just plain Dominica. But this, too, leads to misunderstanding because there happens to be an island of Dominica which is part of the Windward Islands in the British West Indies.

However both the inhabitants of the island of Dominica and the citizens of the Dominican Republic are correctly referred to as Dominicans. But then, so are members of the Order of Dominicans which was founded by Saint Dominic in the year 1218.

However because there is no revolution among the island Dominicans and no upheaval in the ranks of the monkish Dominicans the process of elimination leaves but the Republic Dominicans to make the news pages.

Therefore journalists might be forgiven by semantic purists if they continue to refer to the Dominican Republic as Dominica and its people as Dominicans in the belief that most readers will understand what and where they mean.

So color it least unsatisfactory—and pity the headline writer in his never-ending task of searching for ways to fit 17 or more letters in a space which will only take 10 or less.

Citizen Patrols

THE WILLINGNESS OF a public-spirited Nanaimo group to act the part of vigilantes the better to preserve the dubious safety of the highways will elicit sympathy; but at the same time it will raise doubt in the minds of the public of the efficacy of this sort of law-enforcement, as it does in the minds of those in authority.

Lawlessness, negligence and carelessness on the highways are things we all deplore. Time after time the private driver is tempted to take some sort of action when he has observed some flagrant violation or some maniacal recklessness. He is perfectly entitled to do so under the law. He can make a citizen's arrest, and providing he does not represent himself as a law enforcement officer, he can take steps to stop and identify an offending driver.

But what of the vigilantes? In fact, they can do no more than any ordinary citizen. They can take the licence number of a traffic law violator, lay an information, and go to court to give evidence. In this they will have the warm support of the police. But they will not have the authority of sworn officers. They will have nothing more than ordinary citizen's status—and thus they run certain obvious risks.

Vigilantes are always open to the charge of spiteful prosecution and they will be stigmatized by a certain section of the people as informers.

While the police want the co-operation of the public in their never-ending pursuit of driving offenders, they are reluctant to endorse any group for supplementary duty. Traffic control is a police responsibility, they feel.

However, all the theorizing may be upset if the Nanaimo volunteer patrolmen prove effective. Much will depend on how they go about it. It would not, perhaps, be inappropriate to wish: More power to them.

The Bastedo-Gordon Brief

A Non-Existent 'Equal Partnership'

WE... submit that the terms of reference to the Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism, prepared by two eminent Canadian jurists, Frank L. Bastedo, Q.C., and Judge Percival Hector Gordon, C.B.E.

Mr. Bastedo, a former Minister of the Saskatchewan, is an authority on Canadian constitutional law. Judge Gordon, retired from the Saskatchewan Court of Appeal, was created a King's Counsel for his province in 1952.

changing the existing state of things... The Working Paper No. 4 sent out by the commission for the use of those preparing briefs says that the mainpring of the reference, and of the commission, is the idea of 'an equal partnership between the two founding races.'

Here is the brief's analysis of population figures for the provinces, excluding any territory west of the Upper Canada boundary: Canada (then one province): Upper, 1,394,931; Lower, 1,111,595; (78 per cent French, 25 per cent English); Nova Scotia, 330,487; New Brunswick, 252,047; P.E.I., 88,857; Newfoundland, 122,658; total, 3,394,658.

"These figures of the 1961 census confirm our view," says the brief, "that there was no thought of 'an equal partnership' between the English and French races at the time of Confederation, but the census figures for 1961-1962 years later—make the idea ridiculous, particularly when it is claimed by some of its supporters that the French language should have equal status with the English language throughout Canada."

"Our fellow countrymen are not only those in whose blood runs the blood of France. They are all those, whatever their race or whatever their language, whom the fortunes of war, the chances of fate, or their own choice, have brought among us, and who acknowledge the sovereignty of the British Crown."—Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

ures for Canada for 1961-1962 years later—make the idea ridiculous, particularly when it is claimed by some of its supporters that the French language should have equal status with the English language throughout Canada."

"The 1961 census shows a total population in Canada of 18,238,347, of whom the mother tongue of 10,600,534 is English, 5,122,151 in French, and 2,454,562 of other mother tongues. But of the 5,122,151 in Canada of French mother tongue, those living in Quebec number 4,269,639, leaving only 852,512 of French mother tongue in the other nine provinces—only 4.5 per cent of the total population of these provinces."

"In the four western provinces the population of French mother tongue is much smaller. "The 1961 census shows Manitoba's population as 221,693, including 69,589 or 31 per cent with French as mother tongue; Saskatchewan's, 255,181, including 36,163 or 14 per cent with French mother tongue; Alberta's, 1,331,944, including 42,276 or 3.17 per cent with French mother tongue, and British Columbia's, 1,629,082, including 26,179 or 1.6 per cent in this category."

"The total of French mother tongue in these figures is only 3.44 per cent of the total population of the four provinces."

"If the populations of Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia are taken alone those of French mother tongue constitute only 2.63 per cent of the total population... This probably explains why the people of these three provinces appear to have shown indifference to the French language question, which is not a question in the three western provinces. The insignificance of the French Canadian population in these provinces is such... that they cannot be considered a large enough unit of the population to justify changing the existing state of things... The Working Paper No. 4 sent out by the commission for the use of those preparing briefs says that the mainpring of the reference, and of the commission, is the idea of 'an equal partnership between the two founding races.'

Here is the brief's analysis of population figures for the provinces, excluding any territory west of the Upper Canada boundary: Canada (then one province): Upper, 1,394,931; Lower, 1,111,595; (78 per cent French, 25 per cent English); Nova Scotia, 330,487; New Brunswick, 252,047; P.E.I., 88,857; Newfoundland, 122,658; total, 3,394,658.

"These figures of the 1961 census confirm our view," says the brief, "that there was no thought of 'an equal partnership' between the English and French races at the time of Confederation, but the census figures for 1961-1962 years later—make the idea ridiculous, particularly when it is claimed by some of its supporters that the French language should have equal status with the English language throughout Canada."

"Our fellow countrymen are not only those in whose blood runs the blood of France. They are all those, whatever their race or whatever their language, whom the fortunes of war, the chances of fate, or their own choice, have brought among us, and who acknowledge the sovereignty of the British Crown."—Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

"The 1961 census shows a total population in Canada of 18,238,347, of whom the mother tongue of 10,600,534 is English, 5,122,151 in French, and 2,454,562 of other mother tongues. But of the 5,122,151 in Canada of French mother tongue, those living in Quebec number 4,269,639, leaving only 852,512 of French mother tongue in the other nine provinces—only 4.5 per cent of the total population of these provinces."

"In the four western provinces the population of French mother tongue is much smaller. "The 1961 census shows Manitoba's population as 221,693, including 69,589 or 31 per cent with French as mother tongue; Saskatchewan's, 255,181, including 36,163 or 14 per cent with French mother tongue; Alberta's, 1,331,944, including 42,276 or 3.17 per cent with French mother tongue, and British Columbia's, 1,629,082, including 26,179 or 1.6 per cent in this category."

"The total of French mother tongue in these figures is only 3.44 per cent of the total population of the four provinces."

"If the populations of Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia are taken alone those of French mother tongue constitute only 2.63 per cent of the total population... This probably explains why the people of these three provinces appear to have shown indifference to the French language question, which is not a question in the three western provinces. ## Today In History

By The Canadian Press

The Winnipeg strike began 45 years ago today—in 1913—and the city was paralyzed for 41 days. The Robson commission, which later investigated the strike, found it had been aimed only at improving wages and labor's bargaining position, but most government bodies feared a Bolshevik revolution was brewing. A number of labor leaders were sent to prison under emergency sedition laws which were not repealed until 1932.

1973—The national policy of tariff protection went into effect.

1935—Canadian-born opera star Edward Johnson was appointed manager of the Metropolitan Opera of New York.

First World War: Fifty years ago today—in 1918—the British Army reported significant gains near Festubert; Russian forces were in continuous action in eastern Galicia.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—France changed its policy from positional to mobile warfare in the tank battle at Sedan; League of Nations bodies started to evacuate Switzerland; Greece sent troops to the Italian-garrisoned Albanian frontier; HMS Valentine was reported beached on the Dutch coast.

"But surely," says the brief in rebuttal, "the right to speak French in the federal Parliament and federal courts, and to have the proceedings and acts of Parliament recorded and printed in both languages... stands by itself. The courts have held, for instance, that it has no bearing on the right to use French as the language of instruction in provinces outside Quebec."

"It has also been held by the courts that the right to separate schools, given by Section 93 of the BNA Act, is not based on language, but on religion. "In the same statement (Nov. 7) Mr. Duntun said: "On the other hand, it is clear that this concept of equal partnership cannot be simple. More Canadians speak English than French so that there cannot be exact equality in magnitude. It is obvious that English will continue to be the dominant language in large parts of the country; French in others. In practical terms we do not conceive bilingualism in Canada will mean that all individual Canadians must speak the two main languages; no more than all English-speaking Canadians must talk French or that all French-speaking Canadians must talk English."

"With deference, it is an understatement to say 'more Canadians speak English than French.' The 1961 census of Canada shows that out of a total population of 18,238,349 there are 10,600,534 of English mother tongue, but that an additional 1,624,228, making a total of 12,224,762, use English only as their official language—about 67 per cent of Canada's total population. Of these 668,835 live in Quebec, leaving 11,555,927 in the other nine provinces. That is, over 89 per cent of Canadians in the provinces outside Quebec use English as their official language."

"There is also the factor, which cannot be ignored, that the language of the United States is predominantly English. There are about 155,000,000 people speaking English in the two countries, which makes English the universal language north of Mexico for all practical purposes."

In a statement at the opening of the commission sessions on Nov. 7, the co-chairman, Andre Laurendeau, said of the 'equal partnership' idea, 'I regret to say that it is not a notion compelling recognition by itself, even in deference to the most profound studies.' And he went on: 'For such an idea to flourish it must have the voluntary support of the people in a free society. And that is why the discussions and the public will have to be continuous, intimate and free. As it is the future that is at stake the participation of young people in the debate becomes essential; we shall listen to their views with additional attention and interest.'

"We ask, with deference," says the brief, "since such a 'partnership' did not exist at the time of Confederation, how can it possibly be ascertained to exist now—90 years later—by any amount of discussion between the commission and the public?"

"We in the Canadian west have no antipathy to French Canadians, as such—many of them we number as close friends. But we believe, with many others, that a small minority group of 'French Nationalists' have now pressed much of their demand 'equality' for the French language in the nine provinces outside Quebec."

"It is felt, too, in the west that 'bilingualism' does not just mean using English and French, but English and any other mother tongue."

The brief points out there are 2,454,562 persons in Canada (1961) who owned mother tongues other than English or French.

Would it be asking too much of those who are agitating for more 'French language rights' in Canada, especially with the approach of our Confederation's 100th anniversary, to be thankful they are citizens of this great country to take to heart the exhortation of (Sir) Wilfrid Laurier?

"I ask you one thing that you will not lose sight of, the fact that the limits of our common country are not confined to the province of Quebec, but that they extend to all the territory of Canada... I ask you to remember that, in order to remind you that your duty is simply and above all to be Canadian—to be Canadians. That was the object of Confederation in the intention of its authors."

Unpopular Opinions—III

Cause of Delinquency

By W. A. FERGUSON

ARE parents to blame for the increasing youthful delinquency? The answer to this as to many important questions is "yes" and "no." If by "blame" we mean "responsible for," then the answer is certainly "yes." If we mean "worthy of censure" the answer may well be doubtful or even "no."

That the failure of the home is the primary cause of juvenile crime is not the general belief, but it is an idea worth investigating in the present impasse. When police officials admit that in some of our cities they cannot cope with the increasing amount of youthful violence and disorder, every possible cause must be considered.

The old excuse of poverty, drunken parents and inadequate housing explain only a fraction of the trouble in our comfortable and affluent society. The supposed need for more organized recreation sounds hollow in view of a multitude of clubs, gymnasiums, swimming pools, ice rinks, baseball and football teams, dances and cinema shows: when we add Scouts and Guides, and the voluntary efforts of churches and service clubs, to suggest that we need more of these things is to evade the real issue. Why are they so necessary? What is it in modern youth today that calls for them?

An article in a church paper quotes from the Report of the Juvenile Delinquency Study Committee for Victoria published last November which states that there has been a considerable rise in the percentage of delinquent boys in 1964 over 1963, and adds that while no single factor seems to stand out as the cause, yet "there is ample evidence of a serious lack of co-ordination between the various departments, agencies and professional disciplines who are attempting to deal with the many and varied aspects of delinquency control, correction and prevention"—typical official language to describe our typical methods of attempting to cure social ills.

The work of these agencies and individuals is of the utmost value, but since in spite of all their efforts the ratio of delinquency continues to rise, we are certainly entitled to ask whether there is not some deeper, more general cause involved.

There are, of course, more opportunities open to young people for breaking the law than ever before in speedy cars, higher wages, increased leisure time, and so on. Are these sufficient to account for it all? Can the young not be safely trusted with so much freedom?

It is at this point that the real source of the trouble begins to appear in the decay of family life and the weakening of its influence. Life in modern conditions, especially in cities, with its increased liberty, combined with earlier adolescence both mental and physical, has imposed severe strains upon the cohesion of the family. Children grow up sooner; they leave home earlier to gain economic independence. Mothers of families feel it natural, perhaps necessary, to take outside employment and leave the children to the care of paid "sit-

As a result of such influences two generations have now grown up under a system of almost complete "permissiveness," and find it hard to imagine any other. Naturally they do not dare to enforce any fixed principles or even rules in the home, and their children mature into vigorous adolescents to find a world of unparalleled freedom, and every opportunity to indulge their energies and desires; but with no rules, no guidance, no chart of the course or the destination. This, in the final analysis, is the fundamental cause of juvenile delinquency. It must be remembered however, that parents are only one section, though probably the most influential section, of our whole society, whose prevailing outlook they naturally share. Whether they are seriously to blame for lacking the hardihood to stand out against it in defence of their own convictions (if they have any) who is to say?

When we "do wrong" we feel guilty only because our parents enforced this view upon us. This feeling of guilt has no real validity: we have no right to enforce it upon our children. Much better to guard their health and give them every opportunity to be happy, and to find their own place in the society in which they have to live.

This new faith diligently propagated by John Dewey and his many followers has undermined the confidence of adult society in the ability of children to do right. When Dr. Brock Chisholm tells us that it is absurd to teach children to obey their parents on the basis of an ancient Mosaic Law, he forgets that it is a fundamental principle of all civilized societies, and that defiance of it leads directly to defiance of all authority—of magistrates, police, and schools alike—as we see demonstrated before our eyes today.

As a result of such influences two generations have now grown up under a system of almost complete "permissiveness," and find it hard to imagine any other. Naturally they do not dare to enforce any fixed principles or even rules in the home, and their children mature into vigorous adolescents to find a world of unparalleled freedom, and every opportunity to indulge their energies and desires; but with no rules, no guidance, no chart of the course or the destination. # Part of Key Park Protected

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

Three large nature conservancies covering about three-fifths of Strathcona Park were established Friday by provincial cabinet order.

Recreation Minister Kiernan said the 302,974 acres involved now are fully protected from all forms of exploitation and "we are serving notice that, as far as we are concerned, these areas are inviolate."

The remaining 227,525 acres in the park revert to Class B parkland status, including the controversial Western Mines development on the southwest shore of Buttle Lake and what Mr. Kiernan called timber licences, crown-granted mineral claims and recorded mineral claims numbering "in the hundreds."

In Class B parks commercial ventures may be allowed when judged not detrimental to recreational values.

Mr. Kiernan said existing alienations in Strathcona will remain and his department will entertain applications for commercial development "on merit."

He said "choice" areas all free of alienations make up the nature conservancies.

The largest, covering most of the western part of the park, includes about 15 miles of the western shoreline of Buttle. It preserves virgin forest, alpine regions and the entire 16-mile length of the Moyeha River.

This river runs from the glaciated heights of 5,864-foot-high Mt. Tom Taylor to the head of Clayquot Sound on the west Island coast.

Mr. Kiernan said the Moyeha is the only stream protected throughout its entire length in B.C. and one of the few in this category in North America.

LAKES AND GLACIERS

In the eastern part of the park, next to Forbidden Plateau, protection was given to an area including Red Pillar Mountain, Memory Lake and several other small lakes and glaciers.

In the north, the third conservancy guards Myra and Nola lakes.

A one-mile-wide corridor of Class B parkland was created along the private logging road serving Gold River. A public road to the west planned by the end of this year will also pass through the corridor.

CAMPFIRE PLANNED

Mr. Kiernan said a proposed road to serve Western Mines, running down the east shore of Buttle, will also serve a government campsite near the Buttle Lake Narrows.

Providing this road goes through this year, he said, the government hopes to spend $100,000 in 1966 on construction of the campsite. It will eventually have at least two boat launching ramps and 200 tenting and trailer places.

CIRCLE ROUTE

The campsite could serve as a base for trips to wilderness areas in the nature conservancies. Hiking trails following a circle route are planned in the vicinity of Wolf River and Phillips Creek on the west shore of Buttle.

The only other nature conservancy in B.C. is the Black Tusk Meadows region of Garibaldi Park. A fifth is planned at Bowron Lake Park near Barkerville.

Island Union Votes Soon

An estimated 200 Teamster-member truck drivers in Victoria and Nanaimo will vote Sunday and Monday on a new contract whose details will not be disclosed until after the voting Monday. Officials say the men are employed by five firms in Victoria and one in Nanaimo.

Ladysmith Case

Horse Death Fine: Owner to Appeal

LADYSMITH—Nanaimo district resident Gordon Barry Lines was convicted in magistrate's court Friday of failing to provide adequate food for horses, a charge laid after the death of a mare he called "my pride and joy."

He was fined $35 and ordered to pay $41 costs but defence counsel Ronald MacIsaac of Nanaimo said the conviction will be appealed.

The mare died about Jan. 18 on the Wesley Andrews farm on Yellow Point Road, where Lines and his family then lived. Fifteen witnesses were heard in earlier sessions of the case.

Lines told Magistrate D. K. McAdam he bought the mare and her little colt for $300. They were supposed to stay with other horses not owned by Lines and used for rental purposes.

He said the trouble was they did not stay with the others. They used to go out during the day and come back in the evening but failed to return Dec. 20.

Lines, who then worked at a pulp mill in the area, spent all his spare time searching the 160 acres of the Andrews farm. He combed the dense bush and brush country for four weeks until the two animals finally returned.

The mare was very thin and dry but the colt was plump and wet. After the mare lay down, "we tried everything to get her up again," including rum, coffee, bran and oats.

Lines said he stayed with "my pride and joy" for two nights. On the third day, she died.

Mr. MacIsaac said his client was charged with a "vile offence" when it was "very unlikely" he would mistreat or starve horses wilfully, just as unlikely as if a gardener who loved his flowers and plants destroyed them.

First Ship 'Reborn' Under Maple Leaf

HMCs Saguenay Friday became the first Canadian warship to be commissioned under the maple leaf flag. Ceremonies were held at HMC Dockyard.

The destroyer escort's impressive commissioning was carried out in depressing weather, but grey skies and a strong, cold wind failed to cool the enthusiasm of the ship's 214-man complement.

Ceremonies began with the arrival of Rear Admiral M. G. Stirling, Flag Officer Pacific Coast, who inspected a guard of honour of Saguenay ratings.

There were two commissioning services — one Protestant, conducted by Rev. A. G. Faraday, the second Roman Catholic, conducted by Rev. R. Pelletier.

Then a trumpet call was heard, and the maple leaf rose for the first time at a warship commissioning ceremony.

There was one minor jarring note.

LOWER KEY

He stopped halfway, paused for a few seconds, and joined in again in a lower key.

The ship's commanding officer, Cmdr. H. H. Plant, said the vessel has much new equipment and the first task of the ship's company is to learn to use it efficiently.

The ship's company marched aboard. Cmdr. Plant was piped on, and the ceremony was over. Afterwards, guests inspected the vessel.

SECOND CEREMONY

This was the second commissioning ceremony for the Saguenay.

She was commissioned in Halifax in 1956, and joined the navy's Atlantic Command.

In 1963, Saguenay was dry-docked in North Vancouver for an extensive conversion job.

Always England

There'll Always Be An England is the title of a talk an American professor will give at 8 p.m. today in the Oak Bay Junior High School.

Dr. Charles Forbes Taylor, lecturer, humorist, author and photographer, will illustrate the lecture with his own documentary film.

A professor at the University of Southern California, he will speak on the period of English History from Queen Elizabeth I to the present day.

His talk is part of the World Around Us series arranged by the education division of the Greater Victoria School board.

Indonesians Demonstrate

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI) — An estimated 300 Indonesians demonstrated Friday before the American embassy here to protest the seizure of an Indonesian ship in California. ## Cushions Will Add Comfort to Pews

Foam rubber cushions for the pews is one item announced by Metropolitan United Church for its $100,000 building program from 1966 to 1970. Other items are a new organ console, a new chancel, completion of the Ephraim Evans Auditorium, carpet for the main auditorium, re-surfacing of the ceiling in the main auditorium, and painting and decorating where necessary. Work will start "as funds permit."

Chaplain Reports

Students Suffer Self Confusion At Universities

Canadian university students today seem to see nothing in the public domain worth rebelling against or identifying with, says United Church university chaplain Rev. M. J. V. Shaver.

"A surprising number of our students are lost in an extreme kind of loneliness," says the UBC chaplain in an agenda report now being circulated to delegates of the B.C. Conference of the United Church, which will meet May 26-31 in Vancouver. Mr. Shaver quotes a Toronto survey which reports that 75 per cent of the students there feel despondent and depressed, 8,000 lack confidence, 7,000 are concerned about the kind of values they have, 4,000 feel close to a nervous breakdown.

"They are in a kind of limbo. I believe it is well described as a state of Identity Confusion. The distance between the generation grows with increasing rapidity.

"An inter-confusion of cultural worlds, up to now isolated from one another, close in about us. The fragmentation of the intellectual world into isolated disciplines, each with its own perspective, has contributed to a loss of expectation that any inclusive system can be found. We suffer a constant bombardment of conflicting opinions, none of which appears to be free of vested interests."

STUDENTS DISTURBED Mr. Shaver points out the dilemma by asking on behalf of today's disturbed university student, "Where does one stand while deciding where to stand?" The chaplain feels "today's very secular campus is crying out for a ministry. The trick is to discover what the nature of this ministry should be.

PAINFUL LISTENING "We already know that it will require a listening ministry," he describes such a ministry as "costly... a ministry of painful listening.

"To enter the abyss with a person who has nowhere to stand and who cannot decide where to stand is to be confronted with a painful combination of welcome and rejection. Stay with me while I rain blows on you."

The chaplain foresees the need for "a ministry of small intimate communities, whose individuals

B.C. Ministers To Hear Billy Graham

A ministers' conference on evangelism with Billy Graham as keynote speaker is to be held July 5 to 8 at the University of British Columbia. Invitations have been mailed to all ministers in B.C. and the state of Washington by the British Columbia Evangelical Association.

Forum and seminar topics will include Evangelism in the Local Church, Keys to a Dramatic Personal Witness, The Gospel and the Intellectual, Home Bible Studies and the Key to Lay Evangelism. Other topics will be Witnessing Youth to Christ, Mobilization of the Laity, The Place of Music in Evangelism, Preaching Through Your Writing. Cost is nominal—meals and room on campus will total $5 per day.

Special Week For Forests

Forest fires will blacken 3,700 square miles in Canada this year, and to try to curb the toll the Canadian Forestry Association has declared May 18 in 72 National Forest Conservation Week.

More than 1,400 fires, one-fifth of the season's total, will rage in May. Canadians generally don't seem to realize that they can be held responsible for forest fire damage whether they start a fire on purpose or through carelessness, it was pointed out.

Laws in all provinces provide penalties for those causing forest fires. The Criminal Code contains provision for fines and imprisonment.

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

A degraded sneak-thief had the Devil tattooed over his heart; after a harrowing session with General Booth, a skilled tattooist changed it to an angel.

A man accused Kate Booth, "It's our money you want!" "Say that again!" she challenged him. "You aren't! You know it's a lie!" And seizing him by his shirt collar she dragged him into the hall, set him down on the front seat, and began the service. William T. Stead, editor of the Pall Mall Gazette, a man whose eyes were "like burning coals" and whose rebellion made him cry, "It is a sham, a horrible sham, the whole of our professed Christianity and civilization." Howard Vincent, formerly director of Scotland Yard, cynically told him the knowledge of such horrors did not even raise the neighbors. "Then I will raise hell," said Stead.

Articles Raised Support

His articles in the Gazette, beginning with "A sudden tribute to modern Babylon," also raised the support of Lord Shaftesbury and a 28-year-old red-headed Bernard Shaw. "Fiery Elijah" Cadman, never sober since infancy and member of a two-age gang, the Ragged Bunch, was converted by Booth. Down to the Yorkshire fishing village of Whitby Cadman led the Salvation Army. "By the help of God, I'm going to wake them up!" Cadman vowed. He did, converting thousands under the banner, "War In Whitby! The Hallelujah Army, fighting for God!"

This Is Real Christianity

This is real Christianity for you. You'll not put the book down until you've read it through. You need a strong stomach to read of Devil's Island where men were punished by being stripped naked, coated with molasses, and staked all day to an anthill. Salvationist Ensign Charles Pease, aged 17 years, went there. When he left broken in body and almost in mind, the natives said, "It is as if God had come amongst us."

When General Booth was buried in London "City offices were dark and shuttered; the flags of all nations had slipped gently down to salute him." On this day of tributes, when the London Daily Mirror produced its own memorial number, the Daily Telegraph avowed: "He belonged in the company of saints." Around his

7 Growth Behind Population

United Church Lags

Last year the United Church in B.C. grew only one-third as fast as the province's population.

The figures, contained in the agenda for the 41st annual meeting of the B.C. Conference, United Church, May 26-31, in Vancouver, list membership increase as 1.1 per cent and population increase as 2.9 per cent. Apart from this increase, "all figures... in terms of numbers of people involved in activities of the church show decreases varying from one per cent to seven per cent," reported statistics chairman Rev. T. G. Reed.

INVESTMENT UP

"On the other hand the figures for investment in church property show increases from four per cent to 13 per cent, while the net amount raised is approximately the same."

Total church membership in 1967 was 70,756; in 1963, 70,004. Sunday School—46,147 (67,960 in 1963); Christian Education through-the-week groups—21,082 (21,486); Men's Clubs—2,183 (2,356); The United Church Women—16,748 (17,579).

Received by profession of faith—2,376 (2,395).

The number of candidates for the ministry was up—68 (64). Total value of all church property $34,732,630 ($32,736,150).

Amount expended for local capital improvements—$970,308 ($514,306). Total net amount raised—($358,945). Forwarded to Missionary and Maintenance Fund—$539,870 ($514,306).

Two Different Alibis A Little Bit Sticky

Conflicting stories about where they had obtained four drums of adhesive cement led to conviction on a charge of breaking and entering for two men in city magistrate's court Friday.

Joint defendants Mihaly Molnar and Janos Puskar, 1020 Catherine, heard a second charge of possession of stolen goods over the value of $50 dismissed by Magistrate William Ostler.

The pair had been checked by police early April 1 outside the YMCA premises under construction on Broughton. Their car trunk contained the four five-gallon drums, and the crown had contended that the cement was stolen from the building.

TWO STORIES

The two could not satisfactorily account for the cement, according to Magistrate Ostler. One said that they had obtained the cement at an auction, while the other contended that the cement was bought from an acquaintance.

Police said the shoes and pant cuffs of the two men were mud-spattered and covered with lime similar to that found on the construction site.

Magistrate Ostler declared that an identification sticker proved the drums could only have come from the construction site.

He dismissed the possession charge, noting that the admission was so close in time to the breaking and entering that it was obviously part of the theft.

The crown served notice that it intended to prosecute on other counts of possession, and trial date was set for May 21.

Norman Thom, 213 Belmont, was fined $30 and placed on $250 bond for contributing to the delinquency of a 16-year-old girl.

Defence counsel Brian Smith referred to the incident, which occurred April 10, as "completely out of character."

Prosecution evidence showed that the accused had followed the girl to her bedroom after a heavy drinking bout, but that there was no indication of assault.

"This is somewhat of an anomaly," commented Magistrate Ostler, "since in some other provinces it would not be an offence, the age of consent in some provinces is 16, rather than 18 as it is in B.C."

Gerald R. Parker, 18, of 615 Fernside, was sentenced to six months for a breach of recognizance.

City Pilot To Fly Jets

Flying Officer C. W. Hemus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hemus, 2908 Foul Bay Road, has won his RCAF pilot's wings.

He received the wings at RCAF station Moose Jaw, Sask., after completing more than a year of flying training in the Chipmunk, Harvard and T-33 jet aircraft. F/O Hemus is being transferred to Baginville, Que., for duty with the CF-105B Voodoo jet.

He had been convicted of theft while on probation and sentenced to eight months definite and four months indefinite in the young offenders' unit.

The conviction occurred Dec. 22, 1964, but appeals since then have taken four months. The six months will run concurrently with the earlier term.

In Oak Bay magistrate's court, Sydney Mudie, 375 Arnot, pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving and was fined $50. Court was told he lost control of his car April 25 on King George Terrace. A power pole was snapped, causing about $500 damage to his car and the pole.

Erie O. Smythe, 2774 Tudor, was fined $45 on a charge of careless driving as a result of an accident April 26.

He was attempting to pass a car on Foul Bay Road when the car ahead turned onto Haultain. Smythe rolled his car in attempting to avoid hitting the other vehicle.

'Positive' Attitude To Birth Control

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Ecumenical Council's proposed treatment of birth control has been given a distinctly more positive cast, Vatican sources disclosed today.

The sources said that a Council document on modern world questions now speaks of "responsible procreation" as desirable, rather than simply taking note of the difficulties. But it also urges "a spirit of sacrifice in continence."

The birth control section was one of those rewritten in what was termed a "thorough revision" of the Council's proposed document on the church in the modern world.

Westcoast Income Climbs

By HARRY YOUNG Colonist Business Editor

Because it sold its interest in Alberta Natural Gas, the net income of Westcoast Transmission Company for the year ended March 31, 1965 will be more than double that of a year ago.

In a preliminary report on its activities, the company said it expected last year's net income of $50 cents a share would be more than $1.

The increase from last year's $1,204,977 net profit was due to the non-recurring item of the sale of its 284,000 shares in its Alberta rival valued about $5,000,000.

Details of the year's results will be sent to shareholders towards the end of this month. Sales of natural gas to its B.C. customers, mainly B.C. Hydro and Inland Natural Gas, were substantially higher but the export of gas remained at the maximum potential under the existing contract level.

Interest charges and capital repayment of loans on the company's main line extension to the Fort Nelson area would, the company said, affect subsequent earnings, but there was hope that some adjustment of the U.S. contract might be possible.

El Paso Natural Gas settled its dispute with the U.S. Justice Department concerning its ownership of Pacific Northwest Production, which was Westcoast's U.S. customer. Following the announcement, market value of Westcoast shares advanced more than a dollar to $15 1/2 on Vancouver Stock Exchange.

TWO NEW ISSUES
Two new issues are being placed on the market by Credit Foncier. They are $6,000,000 5 1/2 per cent debentures due June 1972, offered at 99 1/2 to yield 5.59 per cent and $6,000,000 5 1/2 per cent debentures due June 1965 offered at 99 1/2 to yield about 5.79 per cent.

FIRST FOR CYGNUS
An initial dividend of 10 cents a share has been declared on the "A" shares of Cygnus Corporation.

CHANGING PREMISES
The Victoria office of the Canadian Credit Men's Association Ltd. has moved from its old address at 630 Fort Street to the Alexis Building on the same street.

Real Topping, area manager of the Association, says the new offices has grown in its 15 years in Victoria to a membership of 91, of which 17 joined within the last year.

The association provides specialized credit information for its members.

HUSKY'S GOOD START

Consolidated net profit of Husky Oil Canada Ltd. in the first three months of 1965 was $901,000, an increase of 28 per cent over the $695,000 profit in the same period of 1964.

HIGHER EARNINGS
Net earnings of Dome Mines for the first three months of 1965 were $715,858 (37 cents) against $688,750 (35 cents) in the corresponding quarter of 1964.

COMING CHANGES
D. D. Morris has been appointed vice-president operations of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. Ltd. and will move from Trail to the head office in Montreal shortly.

He was formerly vice-president and general manager at Trail. Other changes announced by Cominco were those of J. H. Salter as vice-president, western region, and S. M. Rothman, manager, western operations.

Yukon Study At Icefield

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — A group of 61 scientists and students is to spend the summer in the St. Elias mountain range in the southwest Yukon on an icefield research project. The project, which started in 1961, this year includes students and teachers from Carleton University, Ottawa; McGill University, Montreal; the University of Toronto, and Yale, Ohio and Michigan Universities.

Change Needed Says Bonner

VANCOUVER (CP) — Attorney-General Bonner Thursday called for revision of the federal Juvenile Delinquents Act. In a speech opening a two-day B.C. conference on social welfare, Mr. Bonner said the act's intent is to protect juveniles from adult courts, but its terms are so wide that a juvenile breaking any law can be prosecuted under it.

Tips on Cucumbers

By M. V. CHESNUT

Our family is inordinately fond of cucumbers and during the cropping season we stuff ourselves with them until we have cucumbers almost coming out of our ears.

Bowls of sliced cucumbers in vinegar adorn our table for every meal except breakfast. We cube them in our salads, we serve chunky "fingers" of them as hors d'oeuvres, nestled in bowls of cracked ice along with little green onions, celery sticks and radishes, and more recently we have been playing around with cucumbers in a sour cream sauce, made to a recipe given us by a Ukrainian friend.

Cucumbers are hungry feeders and need plenty of good stuff in their planting site—old rotted manure for preference, but if you can't get any of this precious stuff, you can make a pretty good substitute by soaking peat moss in a liquid fertilizer solution. Use this enriched peat just as you would manure.

In selecting your cucumber site, it is wise to remember that these plants have a sprawling habit of growth and take up quite a lot of room once the vines really get going. They don't need all this room right away, however, and if you are pressed for space, a good plan is to use the adjoining rows to grow some early vegetables which will be pulled and eaten by the time the cucumber vines are ready to take over the space.

For instance, you could use adjacent rows for radishes—the little Cherry Belle variety is ready to eat in only 21 days—or for those little white table turnips, so delicious when eaten while still young and immature, not much bigger than golf balls. Green onions from multiplier sets are ready for the table in only a few weeks and these, too, are a good choice to grow next to the cucumber row.

Corn, too, can be grown in the next row to cucumbers. While corn won't be pulled up, like radishes and green onions, when the cucumber vines invade their space, it will at least have put on sufficient height to tower over the ground-hugging vines. This is a rather happy combination, in fact, for the ground-covering vines keep the corn roots cool and moist, while the light shade cast by the corn makes for tastier cucumbers and freedom from bitterness, often caused by too much sun.

The instructions on the seed packet will often speak of planting cucumbers in "hills." This doesn't mean mounds of soil, as so many novices believe, for the term hill simply refers to individual planting stations. Cucumber seeds are not spaced out in a long seed furrow, like peas, but are sown in specially prepared growing sites.

I space my planting stations 18 inches apart in the row. At each station, a hole is dug, a foot deep and 18 inches across, and a good big shovel-ful of old rotted manure—or enriched peat moss—dumped in. The hole is filled to the top with rich topsoil, and four cucumber seeds are sown to each station, the four seeds forming a little square four inches apart each way, and the sown seeds are covered with a litokap.

If all four seeds come up, the two weakest are pulled up and discarded, leaving two strong vines, one to be trained each way at right angles to the row.

Never cultivate or hoe around your cucumber plants, for the roots are much too close to the surface for this treatment. Instead, weed by hand, then spread a thick surface mulch of straw or lawn mowings, leaving a little clear space around the stems, for these have a tendency to rot off at soil level if kept too damp.

Doctors Warn Middle-Aged Fitness Seekers

Hard Muscles Harm Heart

By Dr. ALFRED BYRNE

From London

Middle-aged men and women thinking of taking "isometric" exercises to improve their figure or physique should first make quite sure their hearts and arteries are fit to stand the strain.

Medical scientists at Edinburgh University have found that, when any group of muscles are kept contracted hard for even a short time, the blood pressure promptly starts to soar.

Dr. A. R. Lind and S. H. Taylor and co-workers at Professor K. W. Donald's department of medicine, Royal Infirmary, made this fundamental discovery on their own circulation.

Each doctor in the experiments had a fine plastic tube placed in the radial artery until it entered his aorta, and a second one passed via an arm vein into his heart.

When the free ends of these tubes were connected with recording instruments, the volunteers grasped a handgrip measuring device with half his maximum strength for a minute or two.

Within seconds, his heart accelerated. Its output increased and the blood pressure began to rise.

Using only 10 per cent of his strength sent the figure up to 20 points. At 50 per cent of their maximum grip, the healthy young men's pressures rose to levels more often seen in severe hypertension. Moreover, the greater the effort, the higher the pressure goes.

Examination of volunteers who already had hypertension showed that the effect is additive. The pressures of such patients are sent up to prodigious heights when contractions are sustained (a term the Edinburgh workers prefer to "isometric").

Physiologists have long known that the blood pressure rises when large muscles are at work. What is remarkable about the latest finding is that continued contraction by small muscles has the same effect.

Keeping the fist clenched raises the blood pressure. But so too, does crooking your little finger tightly.

Prolonged contraction obstructs the flow of blood through a muscle, so apparently the whole cardiovascular system comes to the rescue in such cases to force more blood through, no matter how small the muscle.

It will take some time before the full implications of this work are realized. What, for instance, may the effect be of sustained contractions involved when vehicle drivers use pedals?

The recent results explain why even a short burst of unaccustomed and sustained muscular effort may prove dangerous or disastrous in persons with faulty coronary arteries.

It would be unthinkable for anyone known to have an aneurysm of the aorta—such as the Duke of Windsor had replaced by a prosthesis.

On the positive side, if a person feels he is about to faint it is not necessary for him to put the head down between the knees to bring blood back to the brain. Clenching the fists can do it instead.

There is also a possible application of the new-found principle to astronauts, because low blood pressure is one of the difficulties that bedevil the man in orbit.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Harvey Plans Musical

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Laurence Harvey called before leaving Hollywood for London, with an interesting news item. "I plan to star on Broadway next season in the new Julie Styne musical Buried Alive," Larry told me with some excitement, adding, "It's a comedy." "With that title?" I wondered. "It's about a famous painter who has lived all his life in the south seas with his butler, who comes back to high society in London and wants a quiet life. No one knows him so he changes places with his butler, who dies soon after and is buried with full honors in Westminster Abbey. It's really a hilarious story."

"But I thought after Camelot you were through with singing and dancing on stage," I reminded him. "That was different," he replied. "It was wearing those massive period costumes that made it so difficult. Buried Alive—and we may change the title—takes place in 1913 when life was so gay, and wonderful before the First World War." Next week in England, Harvey will star for producer James Woolf in Life At The Top, a sort of sequel to his very successful Oscar winning movie, Room At The Top.

At the very special request of her husband-to-be, Natalie Wood will not give up her career after the marriage in June. Mr. Blasnik, like many another husband of a movie star, enjoys the glamour surrounding Natalie's work. Harvey would not dream of asking Debbie Reynolds to give up her film career. And if Elita Hayworth had acceded to the late Aly Khan's desire for her to work as a film star during their marriage, she would now be his wealthy widow instead of his rather hard-up divorced wife.

Richard Attenborough, one of England's finest actor-producers, (Scenes On A Wet Afternoon, Guns of Batasi) renewed an old friendship with me at the beach and introduced me to his wife, former actress Sheila Sim, who had just flown in from London with her two daughters. Richard is in Hollywood for the first time, to star with Jimmy Stewart in Flight Of The Phoenix. Richard and his family will move soon into Gregory Peck's beautiful home complete with servants when Deborah Kerr and her husband, Peter Viertel, move out. Debbie has been in Hollywood starting with Frank Sinatra in Marriage On The Rocks. And how nice to have Mr. Peck for a friend. Naturally none of his guests pay for the privilege of living in his home.

Red Skelton is having 24 paintings from his $300,000 collection shipped from his Brooklyn home to Madrid to keep him company while he's making Dr. Zhivago there. Rod will be working until September on this picture.

June Lockhart and her husband, architect John Lindsay, take off for Spain for a vacation before June begins filming her new Lost In Space television series. And David and Jordis Niven are on their way to Leningrad to visit friends there. David has friends every place, even in Russia. He's in the happy position of choosing between two picture offers, Ice Station Zebra for producer Mark Kesselhoff and Death of Grass for producer Larry Bushman. He'll probably choose the latter.

Park Offer Accepted

If city council agrees, Saanich will take over Gorge Park for at least 20 years—grading it, cleaning it up, fencing it, draining it, and providing playground and picnic equipment.

The city's proposal to its neighboring municipality has been accepted, says a letter received Friday, and an extensive program of improvement has been planned.

INITIAL STEPS

Initial steps are estimated to cost about $10,000, after which Saanich will spend $1,000 a year on the 11-acre property along the shores of the Gorge.

A condition of the plan is that the lease agreement—for the area east of the Gorge bridge—will contain a provision for renewal. Rental for the park is $1 a year.

REVIEWED INTEREST

The land, which came to the city in 1904 for park purposes, became less desirable as the years went by and the Gorge became polluted with sewage. Partial correction of that condition has brought renewed interest in the park.

Saanich proposes to grade and seed picnic areas, construct a waterfront walk, build 20 picnic tables and place 20 benches along the shore, develop parking areas, and prune trees.

Parents Take Body to California

Susan's Neighbors Believe She Knew Her Killer

By IAN SMITH

Under the trees, it's peaceful. You look at the spot where murder was committed and it seems unreal.

The fir and maple trees form a quiet canopy and it's hard to believe that here just two days ago searchers found the nude and battered body of 14-year-old Susan Freschi.

But it's not unreal to the Colwood RCMP, who have been checking leads and fending off questions since the bound body was discovered Wednesday afternoon.

Not Talking

They have files bulging with material as they check the neighborhood, acquaintances, known sex offenders—but if they have any information that really matters, they aren't saying.

Neighbors, though, feel that Susan probably knew her attacker.

One neighbor put it this way: "The fellow couldn't have been waiting for her in the bush. There would be no point to it; at that time of night, nobody is usually going through there."

Lots of Time

"Ordinarily Susan wouldn't have been there either; it was just a combination of circumstances that led her to the spot at that time."

"If she came by way of the tracks (parallel to Atkins Road), she would have seen anybody following her. If she didn't like the looks of the fellow, she would have had lots of time to get down to one of the houses along Atkins Road."

"She would have been on the tracks long enough to know something was funny."

Bush Thick

"If she went up from the Island Highway, the attacker wouldn't have had any reason to take her that far up the trail. The bush is thick almost down to the road, and further up the trail they went, the closer they got to Atkins Road."

"That's why I think she knew him."

Noise of Mower

"We wouldn't have heard any screams because of the noise of the mower," she said, "but we didn't see anybody either. And we were out in the garden until after nine."

Susan was last seen leaving a bus at Helmcken Road and the Island Highway at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday.

She had planned to walk to the Chilco Road home of her aunt, Mrs. Gladys Earnshaw, where she had been staying.

"I know it's silly," said one woman, "but I just can't think of going up there alone. Nothing's going to happen now."

Firm Draws Bead On Bad Cheques

A Victoria investigation firm has established a service to protect local merchants from bad cheques.

Research Services Ltd., has organized Research Cheque Recovery under manager John J. Scott to deal solely with bad cheques.

It is not a collection agency but through a co-operative effort, the service will supply a weekly list of names and addresses of persons who have outstanding cheques with its members.

An investigator will interview the person who wrote the bad cheque and try to insure it is covered immediately.

"If not," Mr. Scott explained, "(we) will prefer charges or reach an amicable arrangement for repayment."

Belmont Ceremony Today

Belmont Park goes all out today when Judy Melburn is crowned May Queen. Last year's queen, Darlene Moyes, will do the honors.

Ceremonies begin with a parade, which leaves the park's Roman Catholic church at 1:30 p.m., and travels 13 blocks to John Stubbs Elementary School lower playground.

This year's princesses, Karen Pettinger and Judy Breen, also will be crowned.

City Pair Wins Poster Prizes

Harry Barber, Victoria Senior High School won second prize

not with all this publicity—but I still get a funny feeling when I think of walking along that trail."

Others shared her opinion and it's probable that the walk, which once used to be a popular route to Thetis Lake, will be largely deserted by women and children this summer.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Freschi of La Canada, Calif., where he is a realtor.

They flew to Victoria immediately after the girl's death, but the mother was told that her daughter died in an automobile accident. She was in a state of collapse at the time.

After an inquest had been opened the parents returned to California with the body for burial services.

The neighbors have become used to guiding police and reporters to the scene, but it will take longer for them to get used to the woods behind their homes again.

The tragic spot is close to the

CNR spur line near Darwin Road where the body of Molly Justice, 15, was found 22 years ago.

She had been stabbed repeatedly and left beside the tracks January 18, 1943.

Her killer was never found. Susan's friends remember her as a friendly, popular girl.

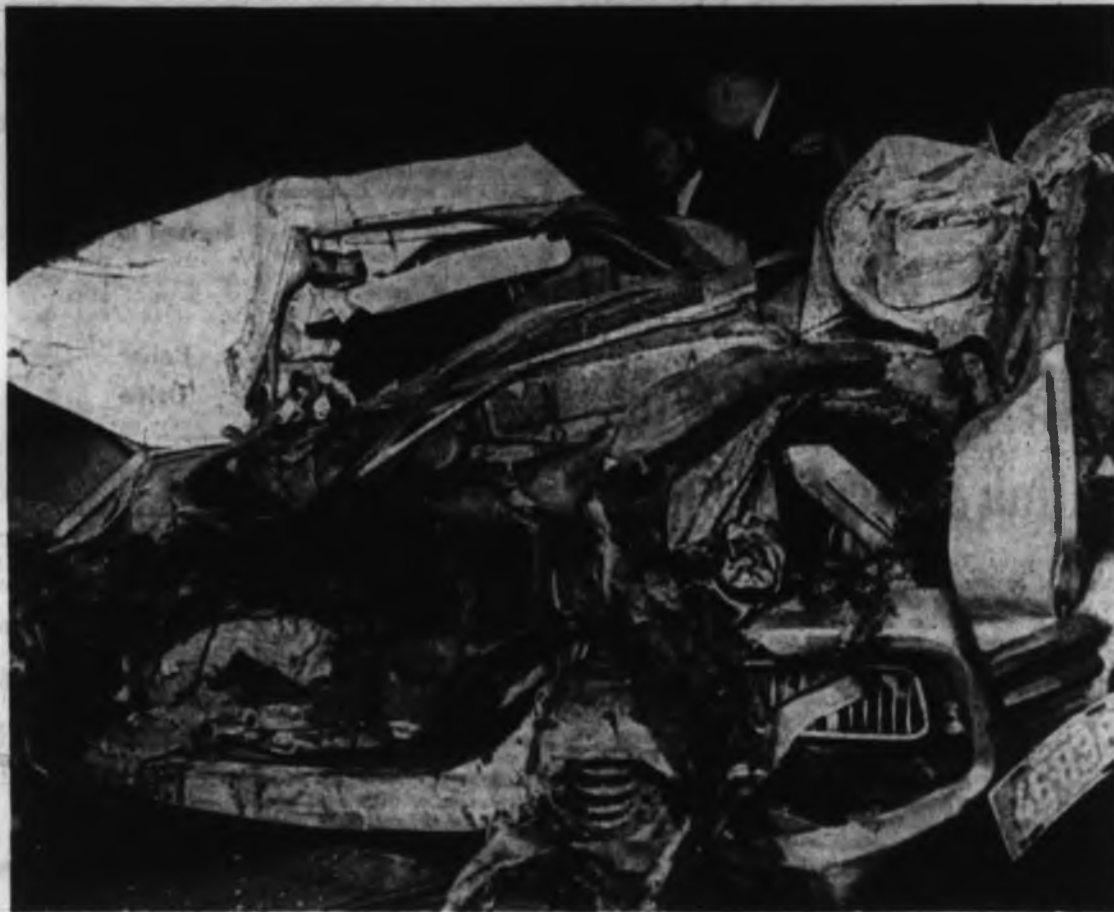

Mrs. D. B. Carley, who operates the riding school at Victoria Riding Academy which Susan visited on the night of the crime, says she was a "nice girl, full of fun. All she thought about was school and horses. She was not interested in boys."

Susan had been class president of Grade 8 at St. Ann's Academy, and had been nominated by her fellow students for a citizenship award, despite the fact that she was new to the school.

And meanwhile, the hunt for her slayer goes on . . .

Special Zoning Urged

'Save Our Greenhouses'

Saanich Peninsula is in danger of losing its nearly $1,000,000-a-year cucumber and tomato business unless greenhouse zoning is established, a government official warned Friday.

Provincial horticulturist Charles Carter wants municipalities to zone suitable areas for greenhouse development in the same manner as zoning is established for residential, commercial and industrial uses.

He said rising land prices and urban sprawl threatens to push the growing greenhouse industry off the peninsula.

A few operations have already been crowded out, he said, and

"unless municipalities take steps to zone special areas for greenhouses we are going to lose a valuable industry."

Local greenhouses permanently employ about 500 people, Mr. Carter explained, plus scores of casual workers.

The horticulturist predicted the greenhouse industry will double in size within a few years if the necessary land is available.

"It will expand in line with the population growth," he said. "As it is now, all our greenhouse vegetables are earmarked for the local market."

Main crops of the local greenhouses are cucumbers and tomatoes, along with specialty crops such as carnations and roses.

Forces Day

Armed Forces Day will be observed in Victoria June 28.

Civil Disobedience Strategy

Americans to Join Sit-In at Comox

Six youths from San Francisco trained in civil disobedience will join the Victoria to Comox peace march May 22 to June 2 and the June 5 and 6 sit-in at RCA.

Station Comox, organizer Peter Light said in Victoria Friday night.

"We now expect 35 to 50 people to join us in an attempt to enter the air base and, if not successful, to stage a sit-in for 24 hours or until arrested."

Mr. Light, of Vancouver Peace House, was addressing 66 people in Holyrood House on Comox Project 65.

He estimated 280 people will be in the standing vigil June 2 to 6.

Among those expected to stay in the community for educational work all summer, "If we receive sufficient support," are youths from Bellingham, Seattle, Port Arthur, Toronto, the Kootenays and Vancouver.

Mr. Light also announced Dr. Brock Chisholm would be keynote speaker at a pre-march rally in Beacon Hill Park at 10 a.m. May 22.

any other way than through radical means.

"The Negro situation in the U.S. was not solved through writing letters, through petitions, nor through legal or parliamentary means."

"Martin Luther King and Gandhi before him, have shown the way: non-violence works better than violence."

"Even if a person is beaten up 20 times, the attacker will eventually ask himself, 'Why am I beating him?' and a change can be affected."

"Reacting non-violently to violence serves as a moral jiu-jitsu to throw the opposition off balance."

And even if peace groups are slandered as crackpots, Communists and beatniks, Mr. Light feels close contact can be established on an individual basis, communication and then co-operation will evolve.

Driver Badly Hurt

Car Parts Spew Across Highway

A motorist is in St. Joseph's Hospital in critical condition after his car slammed into a rock outcrop Friday night at Trans-Canada Highway and Belgrave.

William Spencer Beecroft, 41, of 3588 Tillicum Road, was one of four people injured in a series of accidents in Saanich Friday.

Beecroft's car literally came to pieces after smashing into the rock and leaped back across the road. He was thrown from the car in the 10 p.m. crash above Portage Inlet.

RAIL OF PARTS

An eyewitness found himself in a hail of flying parts as he drove toward Victoria. The Beecroft car was northbound.

Nicholas Koudijs, 2632 Goldstream, said the car smashed into the rock and leaped back onto the road again spinning like a top.

"I saw a wheel and a fender coming toward me and speeded up so they would miss the car. There was debris flying all over the place."

TRAFFIC BACKED UP

Veteran Saanich police officers said they had never seen a car as badly wrecked as Beecroft's.

Koudijs described flying glass: "like a hailstorm."

Outbound traffic was backed up for nearly a half-mile as the Saanich fire department hosed down the road to get rid of gasoline.

A man with a fire extinguisher and the sense to use it prevented a nasty situation on the 3800 block Glenford when a car overturned and caught fire after a head-on collision.

Rex Weiland, 3614 Thompson, quickly put out the fire in a car driven by Robert D. Vilness, 361 Baxter. Vilness was uninjured.

TWO INJURED

Mr. and Mrs. John Whitehead, 1601 West Saanich Road, occupants of the other car, were injured in the crash. Mr. Whitehead was admitted with hip and chest injuries. Mrs. Whitehead was released.

An appreciative Saanich fire department refilled Mr. Weiland's fire extinguisher with pyrene.

Next Phone Book

Street Names Back in Full

Victoria street names will be written out in full in the 1966 telephone directory, B.C. Telephone announced Friday.

But if a second line is needed, the abbreviations will pop back.

As it is now, the abbreviations are a hindrance to fast communication, which is, after all, the main reason for having a telephone.

For example, there are at least four "X" roads, Mt. Douglas X, Wains X, Stellys X and Cedar Hill X. These are abbreviations for such as Mount Douglas Cross Road.

But these are easy to figure out.

Here are some gems—Cardi, Pl., Comford, Alder, and Egerton.

These are short for: Cardiff Place, Comerford, Aldridge, and Egerton. If you know the street it is fine; otherwise you guess.

The new directory will eliminate most of these.

The company is also gradually introducing the seven-digit dial system, to replace the five-digit-and-exchange pattern.

"This will take some time," a company spokesman said.

Anyone who wants his telephone number to appear in seven digits in the 1966 directory should notify the company.

"Businessmen will be the last to switch, because they often have letterheads which include telephone numbers in the exchange system printed up years in advance."

The new telephone books will probably be ready for distribution in December.

Scholarship Fund Continues to Climb

Victoria Natural History Society's Freeman King scholarship fund has reached 70 per cent of its objective.

Fund trustees have turned over $3,500 of the $5,000 objective to the University of Victoria to provide an annual $250 scholarship to a student in the natural sciences.

Mr. King heads the society's junior group which now numbers almost 100 members. He told the society's annual meeting the group spent last year collecting specimens for the university and building trails at Thomas B. Francis Park, Fort Rodd Hill and Logan Park.

THIRD TERM Elections were held at the meeting with Miss E. K. Lemon re-elected to her third term as society president.

Dr. A. T. Algar is vice-president; Mrs. F. A. Sherman, secretary, and Cyril Morwen, treasurer. Miss Edith Valens and J. L. Rimmington, former secretary and treasurer respectively, retired after many years of service.

COMMITTEE HEADS

Chosen committee heads were: A. R. Davidson, librarian; W. D. Reith and Dr. G. Clifford Carl, editors; Michael Pope, program; H. D. Walker, publicity; Miss M. C. Melburn and W. H. Warren, botany; M. C. Matheson, ornithology; Dr. J. A. through him.

Field Trip First Of Seven

A visit to Bannerton Park today will be the first of seven bird and botany field trips organized by Victoria Natural History Society this summer.

All trips will start at the Montserrat parking lot at Hillside and Douglas.

Today's group is to meet leader Murray Matheson at 9:30 a.m. Visitors are welcome.

Miss M. C. Melburn will lead the botany trips scheduled for 9:30 a.m., June 5 to George Pringle Memorial Camp; 1:30 p.m., July 3 to Goldstream Park, and 1:30 p.m., Aug. 7 to John Dean Park.

Mr. Matheson will head bird trips to East Sooke June 12, and Cowichan Bay Aug. 14, both leaving at 9:30 a.m. Tom Briggs will lead a botany field trip to Bare and Sidney Islands July 17. Reservations should be made through him.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday I told my daughter, who is 12 years old, that she must learn to iron her own blouses and skirts. Her reply was, "It is your duty as a mother to keep house and take care of your family. Part of housekeeping is the washing and ironing."

Maurine isn't a spoiled child. She has never been one to sass me. Her grades are very good and every remark on how bright she is.

I did not answer her because I didn't know what to say. I would hate to have my family feel that I am not doing my duty. In Maurine's right? If she is wrong please explain where her reasoning breaks down.—PERPLEXED MOTHER

Dear Perplexed: It is a mother's duty to take care of her family. And part of "taking care" of children means teaching them to be self-sufficient and training them to take care of themselves.

A mother isn't doing her children a favor when she allows them to grow up with no household skills.

A girl who can't cook, iron, clean, and sew buttons and buttons is severely handicapped. I feel sorry for a young man who selects such a girl for his wife. And I feel even sorer for the girl because learning these skills, after marriage can be extremely difficult.

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing a few words for the lady who was unhappy because her husband Ben didn't compliment her on the chopped herring.

If she is smart she will stop making chopped herring for a month and see what happens. If Ben doesn't ask for it she should forget the whole thing already because she will never be able to please him.

I had the same problem with sauerkraut and dumplings. I never got the dumplings yellow or hard enough to suit my Kurt. One time they were hard enough but not yellow enough. The next time they were yellow enough but not hard enough. I used to get so frustrated I'd go into the bathroom and bawl.

Finally I decided I could never make dumplings to please him so I quit trying. Three weeks later Kurt begged me to try them again so I did. Well, he praised me to the skies—said they were the best dumplings he ever ate. Maybe this will work for Ben's wife. I hope she tries it.—MARTHA

Dear Martha: Thanks for the hint on how to test a man's interest in special dishes. I agree. And if after a month he doesn't request the dish, forget it already.

Dear Ann Landers: Our 10-year-old son is unusually sensitive. Ever since he started school he has said he wants to be a doctor but I'm beginning to wonder if he has the temperament and disposition.

Donald went fishing for the first time last week. He came home very depressed. When I asked what was wrong he said, "I hate to see a fish with a hook in his mouth. He must suffer a lot."

It seems to me I once read that fish do not feel pain because they are cold-blooded creatures. Will you please print something about this in your column so I can show it to my son?—NO EXPERT ON FISH

Dear No Expert on Fish (and that makes two of us): My fish and game authorities tell me that fish do not feel pain when hooked in the mouth because fish have primitive nervous systems and there are very few nerves in that area.

Only when the fish SWALLOWS a hook does he suffer, and then of course, he should be killed immediately.

Signing the register following their marriage in St. Mark's Anglican Church, Ganges, are Mr. and Mrs. John Ian Foubister. The bride is the former Lois Sylvia Hedger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alan D. Hedger, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Foubister, all of Salt Spring Island. ## Mrs. Winstone Wins Club Speech Contest

The Arbutus Toastmistress Club met at the Blue Room for the annual club speech contest. Toastmistress Miss Beryl Ince was introduced by Mrs. M. F. Dearman.

Taking part were Mrs. J. Walke, Mrs. W. A. Ludlow, Mrs. W. Howes, Mrs. D. E. Pitt, Mrs. E. R. Ashbridge, Mrs. H. Winstone, Mrs. D. L. Campbell, Mrs. H. L. Clark, and Mrs. Sybil McCulloch. Judges were Mrs. D. Webb, Mr. V. J. Christensen, Mr. Robert Bennett, Mr. Eric Colmer and Mr. J. L. Owen. A Spoonful of Sugar was the title of winning speech by Mrs. H. Winstone. She was presented with The Robinson Century Arts Trophy.

Mrs. W. A. Ludlow was second and title of her speech was The Spark. Third was Mrs. H. L. Clark on The Endless Disease. Awards were presented by the president, Mrs. R. S. Butt. Timers were Miss Hattie Jewell and Mrs. H. J. Wende.

Members attending the Northwest Regional Toastmistress Conference at Tacoma, Wash., were Mrs. M. F. Dearman, Mrs. E. R. Ashbridge, Mrs. S. McCulloch and Mrs. D. J. Kennedy.

Allen-Maher

White Prayer Book Carried by Bride

ALBERNI—Mauve and white flowers decorated All Saints' Anglican Church for the recent wedding of Mary Kathleen Maher and Mr. William Harvey Allen.

Rev. S. Leach conducted the service for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Maher, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Allen.

The fair-haired bride chose a white lace, street-length suit, with which she wore a short net veil held in place by a satin bow. She carried a white prayer book centred by a single red rose.

Mrs. J. G. McDonald, her sister's attendant, wore a two-piece costume of pale pink with matching hat and white accessories. Her colonial bouquet was of white carnations.

Mr. Allen Alaburn was best man. Mr. Robert Stephens and Mr. Kenneth Stephens were ushers.

Parents of the young couple assisted in welcoming guests at a reception in the Greenwood Motor Hotel.

A three-tier wedding cake flanked by white tapers centred the bride's table.

Toast to the bride was proposed by her uncle, Mr. T. W. Plant. Among special guests were the bride's grandmother, Mrs. A. Maher, and the groom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Switzer, Edson, Alta.

For travelling, the bride donned a topcoat of strawberry pink over her wedding suit. She wore a white bowler hat and white accessories.

The young couple will live at 264 Montrose Street.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. L. Storey, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Webb, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Williamson, Victoria; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Austin, Nanaimo, B.C., and Mrs. L. Harnett, Puyallup, Wash.

SEVEN-YEAR DIVORCES—More than a third of Scotland's 2,293 divorces last year took place just when the seven-year itch had set in.

PERSONAL MENTION

By Dorothy Wrotnowski

Everything, no doubt, is ship-shape around the Maple Bay Yacht Club in readiness for the sail past this afternoon.

It is a special occasion marking the 40th anniversary of the club.

Honorary Commodore, Rear Admiral Michael G. Stirling, will be taking part in the activities. And Mrs. Stirling and son, Andrew, will accompany the Admiral to the bay.

Events will start with the flag raising outside the club house with Archbishop Patrick Ellis giving the blessing. The youngest member of the club, Geoffrey Maggs, will raise the flag, the first time the new Maple Leaf flag will fly at the Club.

Commodore A. M. M. Stewart has a busy day ahead and will review the fleet from Footloose 11 immediately in front of the Yacht Club.

Fleet Captain Mike Hanson will have Mike Stone aboard the Junc as the lead in the sailing fleet and Staff Captain Ole Quimley will lead the power fleet aboard the Haldi Princess.

Mr. and Mrs. Ormond Springfield will be there in the Barracuda, Clay Anderson in Aloha, the Buzzy Three will have Vic Palmer at the helm and Jim Alford, vice commodore will be in Footloose 11. Mr. and Mrs. Hector Stone will be aboard the Tanguaw 11 for the sail past. At the tea in the Club following the trophy they have donated will be awarded to the trimmest craft. The trophy will be an annual award.

Major and Mrs. F. C. E. Beams and son, Roderick, of Cordova Bay will go up to Maple Bay in the Little Lacy. Ted Beams is a life member of the Yacht Club and it was his father, the late Col. R. E. Beams, who was one of the powers behind the club when it first started.

Col. Beams was the second president, following the late C. H. Dickie, MP, from 1928 to '33, and became the first commodore in 1938 following another year as president in 1937.

Ted Beams also told me that when the Yacht Club moved to its present site, the old Nielsen place, it was his father who had the dock rebuilt—without foreshore rights. That is the way things got done.

Sailed South Seas

Possibly the most interesting craft in the bay today will be the Lorna D, now back in her original home. Richard Carlson is the new skipper of this 48-foot schooner that is now part of the history of Maple Bay.

The late Joe Davidge had a dream of building a schooner and sailing the South Seas.

It took about eight years of building before the craft was in the water and the Davidge's lived in the boat, berthed south of Paddy's Mile Stone for many years until she was ready to set sail.

And set sail she did in the Fall of 1938. For the next five years the Lorna D plied the southern waters with long stopovers in Tahiti, Fiji and many other islands.

Mr. and Mrs. Davidge and son Dick were crew.

Lorna Davidge lived on the schooner named after her until her death last winter at Sooke.

I talked to Dick Davidge and he said "Yes, he would have liked to have kept the schooner," his home for so many years, but that he didn't have time to look after her. He operates a machine and repair shop at Sooke.

Rumor, of course, but I hear the schooner may be again heading for the South Seas some time in the future.

Can it really be 40 years since the Yacht Club was opened in the store at the head of the government wharf? Please don't dispute that site because I was there. But that is another story.

Haddock and Salmon

Still talking about sailing ships. When the Oriole went aground at Shoal Harbor the other day the combined efforts of Haddock and Salmon (Courtney and Phil that is) were not enough. It took two real fishboats to move the craft.

Mostly in Spain

Travellers returning recently from Europe are the Marquis and Marquise de Rodi. They spent the time "mostly in Spain."

Also on the travel list are Mrs. James H. Hamilton and her niece, Mrs. H. J. Napier-Hemy. They leave in a few days to spend four months in Britain with headquarters at Cambridge.

"All my friends think my trip is going to be wonderful but it was like a dash of cold water when I read a letter from my brother, V. A. Wellenda, in Vancouver asking 'What in the world are you going to do all that time in England?'" She was amused.

Cousin from Vancouver

The full moon wasn't too visible last night but it did shed a silvery light over the waters of the harbor making a beautiful setting from the Castle at Royal Roads.

There was music and young laughter echoing in the Castle at the dance given by Rear Admiral and Mrs. Michael G. Stirling, Capt. W. F. Hayes, Commandant of Royal Roads, and Mrs. Hayes, and Cmdr. and Mrs. Garfield Dixon for their debutante daughters, Gillian Stirling, Jane Hayes and Janice Dixon.

Susan Billman, Janice's cousin, came over from Vancouver for the dance and others from the Mainland city were Susan and Ralph Fraser, Janet Davis of Nanaimo, Joyce Bryon of Duncan and Heather Atkinson of Sidney were also guests.

MAKE MILK SAFE

Unpasteurized milk may be made safe by bringing it to a simmer over direct heat for one minute and then cooling it quickly.

Mrs. James M. Taylor of Towner Park Road, Sidney, announces the engagement of her youngest granddaughter, Nora Campbell, to Mr. Eric John Clarke, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Clarke of McNeill Avenue, Victoria. The wedding will take place at 2 p.m., Saturday, June 12, in Holy Trinity Church, Patricia Bay, with Canon F. C. Vaughan-Birch officiating.—(Photo by Tony Archer, Vancouver)

Oak Bay Group Marks Second Anniversary

The Oak Bay Business and Professional Women's Club met at a dinner meeting at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel on Tuesday. It was the second birthday of the club and there was a birthday cake and all the trimmings after the election of officers.

The new officers are Miss Muriel Campbell, president; Miss Mildred Mahoney, vice president; Miss Catherine Kachor (who has transferred from the Winspeg B & P Club), recording secretary; Miss Mary Horan, corresponding secretary; Miss Barbara Heim, treasurer. The three directors are Mrs. Frances Browne, Miss Roseann Barret and Miss Grace Mitchell. Officers will be installed at the June meeting.

There was an interesting review of the activities in other Island B & P Clubs and several board members took part in enlightening new members on by-laws. Mrs. Jean Shepherd was a guest.

Miss Muriel Campbell will be the delegate to Pinewoods for the provincial convention, May 23-24.

The president, Mrs. Gerry Simpson, announced there would be a dinner for Miss Nazla Dame, national president of Canadian Federation of B & P, on May 20 at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel at 7 p.m. with the Oak Bay and Victoria clubs as co-hostesses. A reception in the lounge will follow.

Catholic Adoption Year Theme of Convention

LANGFORD, Highlight of the Victoria Diocesan Convention of the Catholic Women's League of Canada, held in Our Lady of the Rosary Parish, Langford, was the presentation of the Papal decoration, Bene Merenti Medal to Mrs. C. E. Rivers, Victoria, in recognition of her long service in the field of social action.

Bishop Remi de Roo made the presentation before 200 persons at the convention banquet, held in the Royal Colwood Golf Club.

Others honored were Mr. and Mrs. Lambertus Beks of Canadian Martyrs' Parish, Courtenay, as the adoption parents of the year, and Mr. and Mrs. S. A. MacCoy of Star of the Sea Parish, Belmont Park, as the foster parents of the year. Mr. and Mrs. Beks have four adopted children and are awaiting their fifth. The MacCoy's have four children by birth and four foster children.

In keeping with the theme, "Catholic Adoption Year", Guest speaker, Mr. Gordon Wright of the Family and Children Services of Victoria, addressed the group on the urgency of adoption and foster homes. The organization seeks families "warm and sound, safe and good for the child . . . and families who can provide what institutional homes cannot."

He stated further the desirability of "one set of parents, one set of values. . . . Each time a child must tear up roots a part of him is crippled not only temporarily but throughout his life. Consequently the need is for adoption homes or long-term foster homes."

Mr. Wright suggested that "everyone re-examine his goal" with the possibility of making room for an adopted child. Further, that all ask friends and neighbors to find homes.

At the afternoon session, held in Our Lady of the Rosary Hall, Bishop de Roo referred to the convention theme as being appropriate to the nature, temperament and vocation of women who are "graced by God" with special insight into what concerns the welfare of the child.

Much of the planning for social welfare in the past has been done by men without the insight of women, he continued. Catholic organizations realize they have not taken sufficient action and a positive and constructive attitude is necessary. He said he hopes the special adoption project is only the first step in continuing involvement by the CWL. Women have been too shy in bringing insight into the field of social action and he felt more and higher leadership is needed.

In reference to the Vatican Council, whose fourth and last session begins next autumn, the bishop said the field of Catholic action in the lay apostolate is not officially promulgated. Ecumenical relations are just opening up and our whole thinking must be changed. This ecumenical approach effects the CWL. He pointed out that one of the main efforts is to parallel existing structures, such as Catholic, Protestant, and Government organizations in various fields.

"We are living in an era of change—a turning point in history," emphasized the bishop. "Even the pattern of family life has changed," he continued. "Now mass media communication reverses the pattern and the whole world is our village. We sit in our living rooms and watch people having lunch in a capsule up in space."

Bishop de Roo pointed out that the Church "must be prepared to expect immediate reaction" and that it was facing the greatest challenge in history.

The bishop told his audience that when the Vatican Council comes to a decision he wants "the Diocese of Victoria to take second to no one, nor the CWL to lag behind."

Following the business session the executive of Diocesan Council was unanimously returned to office. Executive officers are Mrs. W. W. Rogers, St. Andrew's Cathedral Council, as president; Mrs. H. James, Victoria, first vice-president; Mrs. L. Shelling, St. Edward's Council, Chemainus, second vice-president; Mrs. J. A. Dugan, of St. Patrick's Council, Campbell River, third vice-president; Mrs. R. Rendle, recording secretary and Mrs. B. Michaels, corresponding secretary, both of St. Andrew's Cathedral, Victoria; Mrs. Bert Connolly, Duncan, treasurer.

Air, Water, Soil Ministers Plan Pollution Talks

The Canadian Council of Resources Ministers approved plans Friday for holding a national conference on water, air and soil pollution in 1966. It will be held in Montreal sometime in the fall and it is expected that some 400 experts from all parts of Canada will participate. Theme of the conference will be Pollution and Our Environment.

The resources ministers also agreed to the holding of a Western Canada resources symposium at Winnipeg this fall which was termed the first step toward better regional use of resources. A similar conference is being planned for the Maritimes.

The council's secretariat was instructed to prepare a brief outlining current water resource programs throughout Canada.

Northern Affairs Minister Laing said the survey was the first step in the development of sound national and regional water policies. It is essential, he said,

Laing Unveils Scheme For Bird Protection

The federal government is prepared to spend some $33,000,000 over a 10-year period to preserve breeding grounds for migratory birds on the Prairies.

The program was put forward by North Affairs Minister Laing to the Canadian Council of Resources Ministers which ended its two-day conference here Friday.

He said Ottawa was prepared to spend $5,100,000 a year for the next 10 years in the form of payments to Prairie landowners in return for agreement to preserve breeding grounds.

This would maintain about two thirds of the more than 6,000,000 small sloughs on the Prairies.

Another $400,000 would be spent in each of five years, beginning as soon as possible, to acquire larger marshes and wetlands by purchase or long-term lease.

Mr. Laing said the federal government would also intensify research on waterfowl and eventually take over aerial waterfowl surveys now carried out in Canada by the U.S.

The proposed national wildlife program would involve creation of a Canada Wildlife Act.

The Act would provide for:

- Establishment of wildlife research areas and laboratories;
- Agreements between Canada and the provinces for protection, study, development and utilization of wildlife resources.

Mr. Laing said research would involve diseases and effects of pesticide. Ottawa would also support training of wildlife biologists, now in short supply.

Rich Tastes Get Richer

Champagne and brandy prices in B.C. are going up, it was learned Friday.

A cabinet order in council suggested the retail selling price of a 35-ounce bottle of brandy be boosted from $6.90 to $7.10.

Ordinary champagne goes up from $6.35 a bottle to $6.70 or from $3.35 to $3.60 for a half-bottle.

Vintage champagne will cost $7.40 a bottle, up from $7.30, and the price of a half-bottle goes up from $3.50 to $3.60.

High School Students To Aid 3-U Canvass

More than 500 students from three Greater Victoria high schools will canvass their districts during a jump-the-gun residential campaign for the tri-universities' fund next week.

Taking part in the pre-dark, supper-hour canvass will be 100
Esquimalt Senior High School students, Monday; 200 Oak Bay
Senior High School students,
Wednesday; and 200 Victoria
Senior High School students,
Thursday. The full-scale residential campaign starts June 1.
Transportation has been arranged for the students and after the canvass they will return to their schools for refreshments.

Donations totalling $83,000 were received in the past week at campaign headquarters, swelling the Vancouver Island total to $705,643.

Decals Replace Star Rating

A new system for rating tourist accommodation in B.C. was announced Friday by Recreation Minister Kiernan.

The new regulations include a modified scale of registration fees and an annual inspection of all accommodation.

But the discarded star system of ratings will be replaced with a decal for approved accommodation.

Main classifying factors under the new system, Mr. Kiernan said, will be courtesy, cleanliness and comfort.

Tourist counselors, rather than inspectors, will classify accommodation and one of their prime responsibilities will be to help operators wherever possible.

Newsprint Price Reduced 85

VANCOUVER (CP) — Price reductions of 85 a ton for Canadian newsprint sold to Australia will go into effect June 1, a spokesman for Crown Zeller-

Director Appointed For B.C. Fisheries

B.C. has appointed its own director of commercial fisheries to improve liaison with the federal fisheries authorities, Recreation Minister Kiernan said Friday.

R. G. McEwen, who fills the new post, was detached from the fish and game branch a couple of years ago to carry out a wide-ranging study of fisheries in B.C.

The findings of that study, which have not been made public, indicate an intermingling of sports and commercial fishing interests.

It was apparent, said Mr. Kiernan, that in order to do an effective job for sports fishermen there would have to be high-level co-operation with Ottawa, which has jurisdiction over commercial fisheries.

The government is also advertising a new position of inspector of fisheries to do extension work with the shellfish industry in the province.

"We are convinced that we can upgrade not only the volume but the quality of the product produced by our shellfish industry," said Mr. Kiernan.

New Sewer Line Within a Month

The 10-inch sewer line, which carries effluent from 400 Belmont Park houses under Esquimalt Lagoon to the sea, will be completely replaced within a month, a Royal Canadian Navy spokesman said Friday.

At the moment, only 10 per cent of the line remains to be replaced, he said.

A break in the steel pipeline, one of a series over recent years, caused concern to residents and fishery officials who fear contamination of the clam beds in the lagoon.

The line was repaired, but "leak-off" signs were posted Friday by Greater Victoria metropolitan board of health officials and access will not be allowed until Tuesday.

The RCN, in a statement Friday, said that the pipeline carries "effluent," not raw sewage as stated earlier. However, the navy confirmed that Belmont Park sewage is fed into a large septic tank and effluent from this is carried off by the pipeline.

The pipeline extends under the lagoon and out to sea where it outfalls.

DIVERS NEEDED

The navy statement said:

"Replacement of the entire steel pipeline will take place within one month's time but such work is difficult because it requires the use of divers. Only 10 per cent of the pipeline's length remains to be replaced.

"The latest rupture occurred when a drifting log struck a joint. A 'hand-aid' type of repair collar was installed within three hours after damage was reported at noon Thursday.

BOARD INFORMED

"Warnings were not posted because repair was completed before proper signs could be installed.

"However, the office of the Greater Victoria metropolitan board of health was informed at the time the break was reported.

"The 10-inch line serves about 400 houses at Belmont naval housing development and carries effluent not raw sewage."

Safety Belts for Babies

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — A new type of safety belt for babies travelling by plane is being designed by Swedish engineers.

It consists of an extension in the normal safety belts found in all aircraft, which will enable parents to "fasten" their children on to themselves and so decrease the risk of injuries resulting from the impact of a possible crash.

At present, parents often have to have small babies on their knees during flight. The new belt will enable them to attach the children at their sides.

For Schools

Montreal Will Adopt New English Alphabet

A 45-letter alphabet now being tested in a Catholic school, in Britain, the United States and Australia, will be implemented in Montreal's English schools.

In March, the North Sashish school board decided to introduce the alphabet on an experimental basis in two schools.

John Shubin school in Belmont Park, where it was introduced last year, reports great success with the alphabet.

The Protestant school board of Montreal says it will implement the alphabet "soon."

Known as the Initial Teaching Alphabet, it was invented by Sir James Pitman, grandson of shorthand inventor, Sir Isaac Pitman.

The new alphabet has the regular 26 characters plus a number of linked characters such as "ae" for pronunciation as in "face." The regular "a" is pronounced as in "cap."

NEW SYMBOL

A symbol which looks like a "Z" or a figure 3 which bisects a line, is the symbol for the "a" as sounded in inflection.

The alphabet is a teaching device which is replaced by the standard alphabet as soon as the children have gained a basic mastery of the reading process.

False Alarm At Woodlands

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — A false fire alarm at Woodlands school for retarded children here Thursday caused a rapid evacuation of the school's 100 pupils, some of them bedridden.

A city fire department official commended the staff for the speed with which the pupils were cleared from the school.

Car Washers Will Aid Scholarship

Twenty-five Mount View Senior High School students will wash today for a scholarship.

In efforts to raise funds for its annual scholarship, the school's United Nations Club is holding a car wash from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Town and Country shopping centre.

Proceeds will go to the club's fund from which each year it awards a scholarship to the student showing the most interest in international affairs.

Safety Girl Wins Trip To Ottawa

A St. Margaret's School student will represent Greater Victoria safety patrols in Ottawa next week.

Elected because of her "quiet leadership qualities" was 13-year-old Kelly Shepard, 3025 Colborne Bay Road, a Grade 8 student.

She was on patrol for three years and is described as "a quiet girl always dependable for patrol work regardless of weather conditions."

She was selected by the patrol's sponsor, the Kiwanis Club of Victoria, for character and average scholastic achievement.

Manlaughter Verdict In

VERNON (CP) — An Assize Court jury Thursday returned a verdict of manslaughter in the case of Patrick Daniel Marten, originally charged with non-capital murder in the shooting death of his sister, the woman, Mrs. Marie Miller, was found dead in her home at Okanagan Landing Oct. 13, 1964. Marten will be sentenced by Mr. Justice Harold McInnes at the end of the current assizes here.

Olympic Conference

Loggers Suggest More Training, Better Wood Use

A call to expand training programs in the logging industry was issued Friday by the Olympic Logging Conference.

A resolution passed by the conference, meeting in the Empress Hotel, notes that logging training programs are "functioning with measurable success."

The resolution endorses the principle of entrant-training and recommends that it should be continued and expanded.

TIMBER USE

Another resolution deals with the use of timber acquired by public authorities in construction work.

Many acres of forest land are removed from the production of timber in right-of-way lands acquired for the building of roads, power lines and other public works, but the timber removed from these areas is not always fully utilized.

Timber resources of the Pacific Northwest area are urgently needed by the logging industry to sustain the area's economic base, it was claimed.

PLAN AHEAD

The resolution urges public agencies acquiring forested lands for construction work to make provision in planning for utilization of the timber.

Elected conference chairman for 1965-66 was Ray Helgeson of Port Angeles. He succeeds outgoing chairman Bryan Flitts.

The two-day conference ended Friday. More than 300 logging industry executives from Alaska to Oregon attended.

No-Fee Plan Adopted For School Facilities

A major step towards making school facilities available for public use has been taken by the Greater Victoria school board.

Use of school facilities for regular business meetings of local PTA's and other official auxiliaries will be without charge.

MAINTENANCE FEE

Formerly, a maintenance charge was levied for use of the facilities by all organizations.

The no-fee policy will apply only for regular meetings. Other functions such as fairs, carnivals, concerts and dances will be subject to the maintenance fee.

TENNIS COURTS

Recently another step was taken when buildings and grounds committee chairman Peter Bunn announced steel mesh nets would be installed on the Victoria High School tennis courts and the courts would be open to the public outside school hours.

A spokesman said the courts will be available Monday.

Found in Church: One-Pound 10-Ounce Girl

Tiny Abandoned Baby Fighting for Life

Hours-old premature baby in Jubilee incubator

A tiny premature baby was fighting for its life early today in an incubator at Royal Jubilee Hospital after it was abandoned in Emmanuel Baptist Church, 1900 Fernwood, on Friday.

The baby, a girl, weighed only one pound, 10 ounces when rushed to hospital by Garden City Ambulance driver John Johnson.

It had apparently been born only two or three hours previous to its admittance to hospital at 3 p.m. It was estimated the child was at least two months premature.

Unidentified

The ambulance received a call at about 2:30 p.m. from an unidentified girl, who was apparently phoning from a booth at Belmont and Pandora.

"The girl told us to get out to the church there had been an accident," Mr. Johnson said. "We went up to the side door, on Gladstone, and there was the baby just inside the vestry door. The attendant, John Weavers, spotted it."

Small Blanket

"It was just a little tiny thing wrapped up in a small blanket, but it was still alive. 'I'll tell you, we got it to the hospital as fast as we could, with lights and siren going all the way.'"

Doctors could not predict whether or not the child would live.

Terrible Thing

Hospital administrator George Masters said "it would be a terrible thing if the baby died. The girl could have come to the hospital, and nobody need have known."

City detectives were anxious to obtain any information in the case, and asked persons who may have seen a young woman at the church or at the phone booth to get in touch with them.

U.S. Halts Bombing to Survey Toll

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has stopped the bombing of North Viet Nam pending an intensive reconnaissance survey of damage done and further top-level policy decisions, the Washington Post says in a dispatch from Saigon.

This was disclosed by Rear-Admiral Edward C. Outlaw, commander of the 7th Fleet carrier task force, during a visit aboard his flagship, Coral Sea, in the South China Sea, the Post says.

A two-day halt in air strikes against North Viet Nam had stirred speculation in Washington that the Johnson administration may be reinforcing its new bid to the North Vietnamese Communist leadership to begin talks on ending the war.

Santo Domingo UN STEPS IN WAR STEPPED UP

Heavy firing was reported by U.S. military sources in Santo Domingo Friday night, where the Dominican rebels began a sharp increase in attacks on American installations.

Pakistan Cyclone Toll 5,000

DACCA (UPI)—More than 5,000 persons are feared to have died while another 10,000 are missing in the cyclone and tidal wave which devastated wide coastal areas of East Pakistan and nearby islands, according to reports.

(In Washington, the state department described the situation as "dangerous.")

Heavy machine gun and bazooka firing broke out across the Ocuca River, apparently between rebels on the west bank and U.S. paratroopers on the east shore.

VERGE OF COLLAPSE

As the shaky truce in Santo Domingo seemed near the verge of collapse, the following events were taking place Friday:

● In New York, the Security Council of the United Nations called for a strict cease-fire in the Dominican Republic. The council voted to dispatch a representative to Santo Domingo to see that it was carried out. Two previous cease-fires, arranged first by the Papal Nuncio and then by the Organization of American States, have been only partially observed.

U.N. Secretary-General Thant said his military adviser, Maj.-Gen. Indar Jit Rikhye of India, would leave for Santo Domingo immediately.

Where Did It Come From?

Killer's Rope Analysed

RCMP has been getting strong co-operation from residents in the Colwood district in probing the murder of 34-year-old Susan French.

Colwood detachment has received a tremendous number of calls since the tragedy, a police spokesman said. A squad of 10 criminal investigation branch and uniformed men are checking out leads. They lack enough information on hand to keep the squad going for weeks.

NO PRINTS

Police were unable to lift any prints from the rock believed to be the murder weapon, and found only prints of the murdered girl on her books.

A piece of three-eighths inch Manila rope, 15 feet long, that was used to bind the murdered girl's hands has been sent to Vancouver for analysis.

Inspector G. M. Mackay said Friday police were hoping that

Sex 'Sharks' Escape Net

VANCOUVER (CP)—Penal expert Jay Campbell says a law enforcement net—designed to catch sharks—land harmless whales and allows sharks their freedom.

Mr. Campbell, director of research at a California corrections unit and a former British Columbia corrections worker, defines "sharks" as persons with a potential to commit dangerous sex crimes. The "whales" were persons who committed comparatively harmless offences—exhibitionists, Peeping Toms and homosexuals.

"We make such a big thing out of the minor sex offenses that we waste all the energy and facilities that should be used for detaining and treating potentially dangerous people," he said in an interview Thursday.

Duncan Doctor:

Fallout In Smokes

DUNCAN (CP)—Dr. C. A. Colman-Porter, a Vancouver Island scientist, claims lung cancer is caused by radioactivity in tobacco, rather than nicotine or tar.

Dr. Colman-Porter, a teacher at Shawnigan Lake Boys' School, says tests he has conducted show a link between fallout from nuclear tests, tobacco and cancer.

In a paper presented to the Chemical Institute of Canada he said his tests on 10 popular brands of cigarettes showed American cigarettes made from tobacco nearest nuclear test areas had the highest radioactivity.

Canadian brands had a lower count, and British tobacco the lowest.

Canadian Art In Auction By Satellite

LONDON (CP)—A collection of early Canadian drawings is among the properties up for bids on both sides of the Atlantic in the world's first auction sale by television satellite May 24.

The sale, to be staged in the famed auction hall of Sotheby and Co. in London, will appear on television here and be relayed via the Early Bird space satellite to an American TV network.

The Canadian collection includes a volume of views of waterfalls drawn by Lt.-Col. Cookburn, a sketchbook of Canadian scenes, circa 1830, and 50 pencil and watercolor drawings of Canada by J. Roebuck, 1828.

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (UPI)—The head of the Black Muslim movement in Winston-Salem, Louis X, apparently committed suicide Friday night after shooting two other Negroes.

Long Prison Terms Asked for Baptists

HA'NA (AP)—Long prison terms were asked Friday for two United States Baptist missionaries accused of spying in Cuba for the United States.

Dr. Herbert C. Hill, 61, of Omega, Ga., head of the Western Cuba Baptist Convention, denied spying. The other American on trial is Caudill's son-in-law, Rev. James David Pitt, 51. They were arrested last month.

The prosecution asked a 30-year sentence for Caudill and 18 years for Pitt. Sentences ranging from nine to 20 years were asked for the 32 Cuban Baptists also on trial.

Luis Manuel Aguiar Serrano, 40, a Cuban preacher, testified that an organization headed by Caudill was formed inside the church to fight communism.

Caudill, for 35 years a resident of Cuba admitted illegally trading U.S. dollars for Cuban pesos to Cubans who needed foreign currency to get out of the country.

Under questioning, Caudill said he exchanged about $300,000 for pesos. He denied making a profit.

Second Nuclear Weapon

China: Another Bomb

From CP, UPI

China announced the successful explosion Friday of its second nuclear device, saying it had to develop nuclear weapons "for the purpose of coping with the nuclear blackmail and threats of the United States."

The official New China news agency reported the test took place "over" its remote western provinces.

The agency did not elaborate on the word "over," but nuclear physicist, including Dr. Ralph Lapp of the United States had speculated that the second device would be dropped from a plane.

"China is conducting necessary nuclear tests within defined limits and is developing the nuclear weapon for the purpose of coping with the nuclear blackmail and threats of the United States and for the purpose of abolishing all nuclear weapons," the agency said.

It called the test "another important achievement scored by the Chinese people in strengthening their national defense and safeguarding the security of their motherland and world peace."

In Ottawa, External Affairs Minister Martin said Friday the

Gordon Asks Americans to Let Canada Buy In

ALBION, Mich. (CP)—Finance Minister Walter Gordon set out Canada's "deeply rooted" fears of growing foreign control of the Canadian economy before an American audience Friday night.

Among measures he set out to overcome this was a suggestion that U.S. and European companies with large subsidiaries in Canada—including such companies as General Motors—offer voluntarily to turn over to Canadians "a 25 per cent participation with the promise that another 25 per cent or so would be offered to them in, say, 10 or 15 years."

He emphasized that such an offer would be taken up at current market values. "We are not asking for any handouts."

In his speech to the Albion College regional meeting of the American Association, Mr. Gordon also spelled out steps taken by the government to ensure Canadian control over financial institutions and communications media.

"Troublesome and perplexing" problems arise from the high percentage of foreign ownership of important sectors of the Canadian economy, Mr. Gordon said.

He emphasized that such an offer would be taken up at current market values. "We are not asking for any handouts."

Mr. Gordon admitted the many benefits such investment has brought. It had enabled Canada to diversify the economy faster than would have been possible, opened the door for Canada to draw on the fruits of U.S. research and development programs and technical and managerial skills.

"Obviously, in a material sense, Canadians are better off for it."

Canada still needs foreign investment, Mr. Gordon said, "but we are becoming extremely concerned about the character of the capital inflow and the ownership pattern it is generating."

This capital is concentrated mainly in equity and results from re-investment of retained earnings and depreciation al-

Part of Key Park Protected

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

Three large nature conservancies covering about three-fifths of Strathcona Park were established Friday by provincial cabinet order.

Recreation Minister Kiernan said the 302,974 acres involved now are fully protected from all forms of exploitation and "we are serving notice that, as far as we are concerned, these areas are inviolate."

The remaining 27,525 acres in the park revert to Class B parkland status, including the controversial Western Mines development on the southwest shore of Butte Lake and what Mr. Kiernan called timber licences, crown-granted mineral claims and recorded mineral claims numbering "in the hundreds."

In Class B parks commercial ventures may be allowed when judged not detrimental to recreational values.

Mr. Kiernan said existing alienations in Strathcona will remain and his department will entertain applications for commercial development "on merit."

He said "choice" areas all

free of alienations make up the nature conservancies.

The largest, covering most of the western part of the park, includes about 15 miles of the western shoreline of Butte. It preserves virgin forest, alpine regions and the entire 16-mile length of the Moyeha River.

This river runs from the glaciated heights of 5,864-foot-high Mt. Tom Taylor to the head of Clayquot Sound on the west Island coast.

Mr. Kiernan said the Moyeha is the only stream protected throughout its entire length in B.C. and one of the few in this category in North America.

LAKES AND GLACIERS

In the eastern part of the park, next to Forbidden Plateau, protection was given to an area including Red Pillar Mountain, Memory Lake and several other small lakes and glaciers.

In the north, the third conservancy guards Myra and Nola lakes.

A one-mile-wide corridor of Class B parkland was created along the private logging road serving Gold River. A public road to the west planned by the end of this year will also pass through the corridor.

CAMPFIRE PLANNED

Mr. Kiernan said a proposed road to serve Western Mines, running down the east shore of Butte, will also serve a government campsite near the Butte Lake Narrows.

Providing this road goes through this year, he said, the government hopes to spend $100,000 in 1965 on construction of the campsite. It will eventually have at least two boat launching ramps and 200 tenting and trailer places.

CIRCLE ROUTE

The campsite could serve as a base for trips to wilderness areas in the nature conservancies. Hiking trails following a circle route are planned in the vicinity of Wolf River and Phillips Creek on the west shore of Butte.

The only other nature conservancy in B.C. is the Black Tusk Meadows region of Garibaldi Park. A fifth is planned at Bowen Lake Park near Barkerville.

Teeth Added To City Laws

PORT ALBERNI — City council has put teeth into two of its bylaws and is considering a new bylaw cracking down on another problem.

The new bylaw sets a maximum penalty of $100 for anyone creating a nuisance by permitting filth, discarded materials and rubbish to accumulate on his property. The bylaw covers infestations by caterpillars and other noxious insects.

SWIMMING POOLS

One of two building code amendments contains regulations for swimming pools.

They must be fenced so children cannot climb over the barrier. Self-latching gates are required and no pool is allowed less than 10 feet from the owner's rear-lot line.

Another building code amendment requires off-street parking for any building with more than two residential units.

UNLAWFUL SOUNDS

And the anti-noise bylaw was amended to spell out the way in which vehicles can create "offensive" sounds, and make such sounds unlawful.

In other city news, Ald. Garret Reynolds has agreed to act as area civil defence coordinator for two months from next Wednesday, while S. L. Hughes is away on a trip to England. Council has given Mr. Hughes leave of absence.

Council has turned down an application from Andrew Bros. to buy trees on undeveloped city land. The firm offered to log the Rogers-Wallace and

15-Cent Increase

Mill Unions Accept Pact

VANCOUVER (CP)—Some 6,000 B.C. mill workers employed by five companies have accepted a one-year contract offer, a union spokesman said Friday.

Members of the pulp, Sulphite and Paper Workers' Union (CLC) voted 69 per cent in favor of acceptance and members of the United Papermakers Union (CLC) voted 92 per cent in favor, the spokesman said.

The contract provides a basic wage increase of 15 cents an hour.

FIVE COMPANIES

The workers are employed by Canadian Forest Products Ltd., Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd., B.C. Forest Products Ltd., MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd., and Rayonier of Canada B.C. Ltd.

The contracts raise the base hourly wage for a common laborer to $2.44 and for a journeyman mechanic to $3.44, effective July 1.

Many Island operations were involved in the vote, the biggest being Mac-Powell's divisions in the Alberni. One Mac-Powell division, at Harrow near Nanaimo, opposed the contract offer.

The meeting also decided to hold a weekend festival of the arts in October.

The festival will show arts and other cultural activities going on in the community, help make the public aware of the community's arts potential and publicize the arts council's goals.

Civil Disobedience Strategy

Americans to Join Sit-In at Comox

Six youths from San Francisco trained in civil disobedience will join the Victoria to Comox peace march May 22 to June 2 and the June 5 and 6 sit-in at RCAF

Station Comox, organizer Peter Light said in Victoria Friday night.

"We now expect 35 to 50 people to join us in an attempt to enter the air base and, if not successful, to stage a sit-in for 24 hours or until arrested."

Mr. Light, of Vancouver Peace House, was addressing 46 people in Holyrood House on Comox Project 65.

He estimated 260 people will be in the standing vigil June 2 to 4.

Among those expected to stay in the community for educational work all summer, "If we receive sufficient support," are youths from Bellingham, Seattle, Fort Arthur, Toronto, the Kootenays and Vancouver.

Mr. Light also announced Dr. Brock Chisholm would be keynote speaker at a pre-march rally in Beacon Hill Park at 3 p.m. May 22.

For Gold River Hookup

Rush Telephone Job

GOLD RIVER — B.C. Telephone Co. construction crews are completing a crash program for a $50,000 communications system to serve the rapidly-expanding construction complex at the mouth of the Gold River.

Engineering firms, major contractors and subcontractors are all co-operating in the rush job to link the present Tahsis Co. logging camp to the new Gold River townsite nine miles away. The lumber firm also is building a huge pulp mill at the site of the logging camp. The telephone project is scheduled for completion this weekend.

About 25,000 feet of underground cable was laid last week by a bulldozer pulling a cable-laying machine which literally carves a mole-hole in the ground, lays the cable and backfills all in one operation. About 17,000 feet of overhead cable are being strung on poles down the Gold River canyon.

In some cases the rock bluffs are so sheer and the road so narrow telephone men are drilling holes in the rock face and hanging hangers on the side of the cliff hundreds of feet above the tumbling white water below.

The construction crew is under the supervision of Ed Fortunato of Campbell River. His men must work in the evenings as during the day 14-foot-wide logging trucks are operating continuously up and down this route.

Ladysmith Horse Case

Starved Mare's Owner Plans Appeal

LADYSMITH—Nanaimo district resident Gordon Barry Lines was convicted in magistrate's court Friday of failing to provide adequate food for horses, a charge laid after the death of a mare he called "my pride and joy."

He was fined $35 and ordered to pay $41 costs but defence counsel Ronald MacIsaac of Nanaimo said the conviction will be appealed.

The mare died about Jan. 18 on the Wesley Andrews farm on Yellow Point Road, where Lines and his family then lived. Fifteen witnesses were heard in earlier sessions of the case.

Lines told Magistrate D. K. McAdam he bought the mare and her little colt for $200. They were supposed to stay with other horses not owned by Lines and used for rental purposes.

He said the trouble was they did not stay with the others. They used to go out during the day and come back in the evening but failed to return Dec. 20.

Searched for Month

Lines, who then worked at a pulp mill in the area, spent all his spare time searching the 100 acres of the Andrews farm. He combed the dense bush and brush country for four weeks until the two animals finally returned.

The mare was very thin and dry but the colt was plump and wet. After the mare lay down, "we tried everything to get her up again," including rum, coffee, bran and oats.

Lines said he stayed with "my pride and joy" for two nights. On the third day, she died. He said "I like my horses very much" and indicated the animals were also fond of him. He said heavy snow hampered the search.

Lines also said he looked after the other horses on the farm and "I had absolutely no intention of starving the mare."

Crown counsel Donald Cumliffe of Nanaimo reminded Lines he mentioned to police earlier a suspicion that someone kept the mare and wilfully starved her.

Lines could not explain why the mare had been dry and emaciated and the colt well fed and wet on their return.

Malice Discounted

Mr. MacIsaac said his client was charged with a "vile offence" when it was "very unlikely" he would mistreat or starve horses wilfully, just as unlikely as if a gardener who loved his flowers and plants destroyed them.

He said Lines was an average working man and an average horse lover, but last winter had not been average.

The lawyer also said the mare might have lost appetite through disease, rather than lack of food. He stressed "we do not live in a horse country" and there is a lack of standards here.

Magistrate McAdam agreed with crown counsel that, if someone takes an animal, he also takes on responsibility.

Referring to the hard winter, he said, "If there were extraordinary conditions, extraordinary measures should have been taken to provide adequate feed and (Lines) did not take heed of the winter conditions."

The magistrate felt Lines was probably fond of animals and did not intend in his mind to starve them but "the crown's evidence satisfied me that he neglected the animals and must be found guilty."

Courtenay

Negligence Case To Higher Court

COURTENAY — District resident Eardley Lestock-Kay has been committed by Magistrate

Lionel Beaver-Potts in magistrate's court here for higher court trial on a charge of criminal negligence.

The charge was laid following the traffic death March 6 of Randy Schwartz, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Schwartz of Courtenay, near 17th and Cliffe.

Crown evidence presented by prosecutor T. G. Ryan and given by the RCMP's island traffic supervisor, Sgt. R. Crawford, showed eight points which police said substantiated the possibility that excessive speed was a contributing factor in the case.

FULED OUT TO PASS

Karen Bohn, a passenger in a car driven by J. A. Barry, told the preliminary hearing a car pulled out to pass their car. It was "going at what to me was a considerable speed."

This car, she said, pulled back into the correct lane and then began to slide. At the same time, she caught a glance of a child on a tricycle coming from the left side of the road.

COVERED HER EYES

She covered her eyes at this point.

Later, she saw the Lestock-Kay car stopped and facing the opposite direction to the one it was travelling before the accident.

Both she and Mr. Barry agreed their car was travelling 35 to 40 miles an hour.

Mr. Barry estimated it took the other car 1½ blocks to pass him.

Copter To Aid Copter

COMOX — A Labrador helicopter from 121 Search and Rescue Unit at RCAF Station Comox, searching in the Prince George area for a missing pilot, has been sent on a different rescue mission to Mt. Kennedy in southwestern Yukon.

The Labrador will attempt to pick a stranded Klondike Helicopter Co. Bell-47 copter from the 11,500-foot-level of the mountain, where it made a forced landing last weekend after recording an oil loss.

The Bell-47, owned by John Strait of Calgary, was working under charter for the federal technical surveys department and the U.S. Coast Geodetic Survey.

SAME TYPE

The Labrador is the same type of machine as the one which recently took Senator Robert Kennedy to the area March 22 in his successful effort to scale the peak named for his late brother.

RCAF spokesman said a mechanic was to be flown to the scene to see if the Bell-47 can be repaired and flown out. If not, the Labrador will pick up the Bell-47 and fly it to Haines Junction 60 miles away.

Winds in the area have been reported up to 100 miles an hour and temperatures at night have been dropping to 30 below zero.

This Is Oxfam

DUNCAN — It's the Oxfam Committee for Duncan Relief and it was formed in British Columbia in 1960 to provide aid in case of flood, earthquake, famine and other disasters anywhere in the world.

Oxfam official Norman Stephens of Victoria complained Thursday of the ignorance of Vancouver Islanders about his group. He spoke after a well-advertised meeting was attended by only three people—who stayed to see an Oxfam film.

Inlet Job Unready Until July

NANAIMO — The Commercial Inlet development project for more parking spaces won't be completed in time for Empire Day celebrations.

Tentative plans had been for an official opening during the holiday weekend but a meeting Thursday of the Greater Nanaimo Empire Day Society learned the $10,000 project won't be opened until July. City officials said decisions must be reached on parking payments and formation of a parking commission.

Nanaimo Woman Chose Needle

NANAIMO — A 27-year-old Nanaimo woman chose in magistrate's court Friday to use a needle and thread, and thereby save herself $10.

Mrs. Dorothy Frances Ryan, 680 Chelsea, pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving, was fined $150 and was given a three-month license suspension.

Court was told she became argumentative after police stopped her weaving vehicle on Strathmore Street about 11:30 p.m. Thursday. In an ensuing battle, she ripped the tunic of Const. L. G. Hamilton and it took four policemen to put the handcuffs on.

Magistrate Eric Winch gave Mrs. Ryan the choice of paying $10 for basic repairs or fixing it herself. She chose to sew it herself.

Ladysmith Hospital Addition Approved

LADYSMITH — The provincial health department has approved the spending of $10,000 over and above the original bid of $200,452 for an addition and renovations at the town hospital.

Hospital administrator Ian Peddie said Friday rising construction costs had caused hospital officials to cut from specifications some of the work originally intended.

But the low bid was considerably beneath the estimate of $255,000.

Mr. Peddie said the extra $10,000, part of which will come in grants from the two senior governments, will pay for a $5,000 central vacuum system for the hospital along with such minor jobs as curbs, blacktopping, weather stripping and slat enclosures for oxygen tanks and the downstairs corridor ceiling.

Alberni Idea

Penticton Hoots Calendar Reform

PENTICTON (Special) — Alberni Valley resident David Russell's crusade for international calendar reform apparently has been laughed out of court.

The Penticton Chamber of Commerce decided Thursday to have nothing to do with the calendar.

In fact, gales of laughter met the idea and the Chamber instructed its delegate to the B.C.

Chamber convention in Prince George later this month to vote against it.

The Alberni Valley Chamber decided recently to ask other B.C. Chambers to join it in endorsing the calendar of 13 four-week months, the 13th bearing the name Calenda.

Mr. Russell first suggested the idea as a 1967 centennial project but, thought, Canada could urge it as a world-wide change.

—M. J. Baughman
Light

"A radical change is necessary in our war thinking," Mr. Light said. "Radical change can never come about through any other way than through radical means."

"The Negro situation in the U.S. was not solved through writing letters, through petitions, nor through legal or parliamentary means."

"Martin Luther King and Gandhi before him, have shown the way: non-violence works better than violence."

"Reacting non-violently to violence serves as a moral justification to throw the opposition off balance."

"And even if peace groups are slandered as crackpots, Communists and beatniks, Mr. Light feels once contact can be established on an individual basis, communication and then co-operation will evolve."

"The peace question is more important than civil rights. If the bomb drops, there will be no segregation problem."

Mr. Light admitted the efforts of his peace group might cause trouble in Comox, but he called it "creative trouble."

"Tension creates reaction and while this may be a resentment at first, reaction to the issues involved can then be hoped for."

Mr. Light said he intends to put his peace message across to the people of Comox and Canada — "even if it means jail and possibly a fast in jail."

Susan's Neighbors Believe She Knew Her Killer

By IAN SMITH

Under the trees, it's peaceful now.

You look at the spot where murder was committed and it seems unreal.

The fir and maple trees form a quiet canopy and it's hard to believe that here just two days ago searchers found the nude and battered body of 14-year-old Susan Freschi.

But it's not unreal to the Colwood RCMP, who have been checking leads and fending off questions since the bound body was discovered Wednesday afternoon.

Not Talking

They have files bulging with material as they check the neighborhood, acquaintances, known sex offenders—but if they have any information that really matters, they aren't saying.

Neighbors, though, feel that Susan probably knew her attacker.

Lots of Time

"Ordinarily Susan wouldn't have been there either; it was just a combination of circumstances that led her to the spot at that time."

"If she came by way of the tracks (parallel to Atkins Road), she would have seen anybody following her. If she didn't like the looks of the fellow, she would have had lots of time to get down to one of the houses along Atkins Road."

Bush Thick

"If she went up from the Island Highway, the attacker wouldn't have had any reason to take her that far up the trail. The bush is thick almost down to the road, and further up the trail they went, the closer they got to Atkins Road."

"That's why I think she knew him."

Noise of Mower

"We wouldn't have heard any screams because of the noise of the mower," she said, "but we didn't see anybody either. And we were out in the garden until after nine."

Susan was last seen leaving a bus at Helmeas Road and the Island Highway at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday.

She had planned to walk to the Chiloe Road home of her aunt, Mrs. Gladys Earnshaw, where she had been staying.

"I know it's silly," said one woman, "but I just can't think of going up there alone. Nothing's going to happen now."

not with all this publicity—but I still get a funny feeling when I think of walking along that trail."

Others shared her opinion and it's probable that the walk, which once used to be a popular route to Thetis Lake, will be largely deserted by women and children this summer.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Freschi of La Canada, Calif., where he is a realtor.

They flew to Victoria immediately after the girl's death, but the mother was told that her daughter died in an automobile accident. She was in a state of collapse at the time.

After an inquest had been opened the parents returned to California with the body for burial services.

The neighbors have become used to guiding police and reporters to the scene, but it will take longer for them to get used to the woods behind their homes again.

The tragic spot is close to the

CNR spur line near Darwin Road where the body of Molly Justice, 15, was found 23 years ago.

She had been stabbed repeatedly and left beside the tracks January 18, 1942.

Her killer was never found. Susan's friends remember her as a friendly, popular girl.

Mrs. D. B. Carley, who operates the riding school at Victoria Riding Academy which Susan visited on the night of the crime, says she was a "nice girl, full of fun. All she thought about was school and horses. She was not interested in boys."

Susan had been class president of Grade 8 at St. Ann's Academy, and had been nominated by her fellow students for a citizenship award, despite the fact that she was new to the school.

And meanwhile, the hunt for her slayer goes on...

Car Parts Spew Across Highway

A motorist is in St. Joseph's Hospital in critical condition after his car slammed into a rock outcrop Friday night at Trans-Canada Highway and Belgrave.

William Spencer Becroft, 41, of 3568 Tillicum Road, was one of four people injured in a series of accidents in Saanich Friday.

Becroft's car literally came to pieces after smashing into the outcrop, spewing parts across the road. He was thrown from the car in the 10 p.m. crash above Portage Inlet.

Becroft was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Nicholas Koudis, 2853 Gold-stream, said the car smashed into the rock and leaped back onto the road again spinning like a top.

TRAFFIC BACKED UP

Koudis described flying glass: "like a hailstorm."

A man with a fire extinguisher and the sense to use it prevented a nasty situation on the 3600 block Glanford when a car overturned and caught fire after a head-on collision.

Ken Welland, 5818 Thompson, quickly put out the fire in a car driven by Robert D. Vilnius, 361 Buxton. Vilnius was uninjured.

TWO INJURED

Mr. and Mrs. John Whitehead, 3651 West Saanich Road, occupants of the other car, were injured in the crash. Mr. Whitehead was admitted with hip and chest injuries. Mrs. Whitehead was released.

An appreciative Saanich fire department refilled Mr. Welland's fire extinguisher with pyrene.

Street Names Back in Full

Victoria street names will be written out in full in the 1966 telephone directory, B.C. Telephone announced Friday. But if a second line is needed, the abbreviations will pop back.

As it is now, the abbreviations are a hindrance to fast communication, which is, after all, the main reason for having a telephone.

For example, there are at least four "X" roads, Mt. Douglas X, Wains X, Stellys X and Cedar Hill X. These are abbreviations for such as Mount Douglas Cross Road. But these are easy to figure out.

Here are some gems—Cardiff Pl., Cornford, Alder, and Egerton. These are short for: Cardiff Place, Cornford, Aldridge, and Egerton. If you know the street it is fine; otherwise you guess.

The new directory will eliminate most of these.

The company is also gradually introducing the seven-digit dial system, to replace the five-digit-and-exchange pattern.

"This will take some time," a company spokesman said. Anyone who wants his telephone number to appear in seven digits in the 1966 directory should notify the company.

The new telephone books will probably be ready for distribution in December.

Scholarship Fund Continues to Climb

Victoria Natural History Society's Freeman King scholarship fund has reached 70 per cent of its objective.

Fund trustees have turned over $1,500 of the $2,000 objective to the University of Victoria to provide an annual $250 scholarship to a student in the natural sciences.

Mr. King heads the society's junior group which now numbers almost 100 members. He told the society's annual meeting the group spent last year collecting specimens for the university and building trails at Thomas S. Francis Park, Fort Rodd Hill and Logan Park.

Elections were held at the meeting with Miss E. K. Lemon re-elected to her third term as society president.

Dr. A. T. Algard is vice-president; Mrs. F. A. Sherman, secretary, and Cyril Moreham, treasurer. Miss Edith Valen and J. L. Rimmington, former secretary and treasurer respectively, retired after many years of service.

COMMITTEE HEADS

Field Trip First Of Seven

A visit to Bamerton Park today will be the first of seven bird and botany field trips organized by Victoria Natural History Society this summer.

All trips will start at the Monterey parking lot at Hillside and Douglas.

Today's group is to meet leader Murray Matheson at 9:30 a.m. Visitors are welcome.

Miss M. C. Melburn will lead the botany trip scheduled for 9:30 a.m., June 5 to George Pringle Memorial Camp; 1:30 p.m., July 3 to Goldstream Park, and 1:30 p.m., Aug. 7 to John Dean Park.

Mr. Matheson will head bird trips to East Sooke June 12, and Cowichan Bay Aug. 14, both leaving at 9:30 a.m. Tom Briggs will lead a botany field trip to Bare and Sidney Islands July 17. Reservations should be made through him.

Special Zoning Urged

'Save Our Greenhouses'

Saanich Peninsula is in danger of losing its nearly $1,000,000-a-year cucumber and tomato business unless greenhouse zoning is established, a government official warned Friday.

Provincial horticulturist Charles Carter wants municipalities to zone suitable areas for greenhouse development in the same manner as zoning is established for residential, commercial and industrial uses.

He said rising land prices and urban sprawl threatens to push the growing greenhouse industry off the peninsula.

A few operations have already been crowded out, he said, and

"unless municipalities take steps to zone special areas for greenhouses we are going to lose a valuable industry."

Local greenhouses permanently employ about 500 people. Mr. Carter explained, plus scores of casual workers.

The horticulturist predicted the greenhouse industry will double in size within a few years if the necessary land is available.

"It will expand in line with the population growth," he said. "As it is now, all our greenhouse vegetables are earmarked for the local market."

Main crops of the local greenhouses are cucumbers and tomatoes, along with specialty crops such as carnations and roses.

Civil Disobedience Strategy

Americans to Join Sit-In at Comox

Six youths from San Francisco trained in civil disobedience will join the Victoria to Comox peace march May 22 to June 2 and the June 5 and 6 sit-in at RCAF Station Comox, organizer Peter Light said in Victoria Friday night.

"We now expect 35 to 50 people to join us in an attempt to enter the air base and, if not successful, to stage a sit-in for 24 hours or until arrested."

Mr. Light, of Vancouver Peace House, was addressing 46 people in Holyrood House on Comox Project 65.

He estimated 200 people will be in the standing vigil June 2 to 4.

Among those expected to stay in the community for educational work all summer, "if we receive sufficient support," are youths from Bellingham, Seattle, Fort Arthur, Toronto, the Kootenays and Vancouver.

Mr. Light also announced Dr. Brock Chisholm would be keynote speaker at a pre-march rally in Beacon Hill Park at 10 a.m. May 22.

Belmont Ceremony Today

Belmont Park goes all out today when Judy Kolesar is crowned May Queen. Last year's queen, Darlene Meyer, will do the honors.

Ceremonies begin with a parade, which leaves the park's Roman Catholic church at 1:30 p.m., and travels 12 blocks to John Stibbe Elementary School lower playground.

This year's princesses, Karen Fettingler and Judy Breen, also will be crowned.

"Reacting non-violently to violence serves as a moral jiu-jitsu to throw the opposition off balance."

And even if peace groups are slandered as crackpots, Communists and beatniks, Mr. Light feels once contact can be established on an individual basis, communication and then co-operation will evolve.

"The peace question is more important than civil rights. If the bomb drops, there will be no segregation problem."

Mr. Light admitted the efforts of his peace group might cause trouble in Comox, but he called it "creative trouble."

"Tension creates reaction and while this may be a resentment at first, reaction to the issues involved can then be hoped for."

ABANDONED BABY FIGHTS FOR LIFE

Hours-old premature baby in Jubilee incubator

A tiny premature baby was fighting for its life early today in an incubator at Royal Jubilee Hospital after it was abandoned in Emmanuel Baptist Church, 1900 Fernwood, on Friday.

The baby, a girl, weighed only one pound, 19½ ounces when rushed to hospital by Garden City Ambulance driver John Johnson.

It had apparently been born only two or three hours previous to its admittance to hospital at 3 p.m. It was estimated the child was at least two months premature.

Unidentified

The ambulance received a call at about 2:30 p.m. from an unidentified girl, who was apparently phoning from a booth at Belmont and Pandora.

"The girl told us to get out to the church there had been an accident," Mr. Johnson said. "We went up to the side door, on Gladstone, and there was the baby just inside the vestry door. The attendant, John Wawers, spotted it."

Small Blanket

"It was just a little tiny thing wrapped up in a small blanket, but it was still alive. 'I'll tell you, we got it to the hospital as fast as we could, with lights and siren going all the way.' Doctors could not predict whether or not the child would live."

Terrible Thing

Hospital administrator George Masters said "it would be a terrible thing if the baby died. The girl could have come to the hospital, and nobody need have known."

City detectives were anxious to obtain any information in the case, and asked persons who may have seen a young woman at the church or at the phone booth to get in touch with them.

U.S. Halts Bombing to Survey Toll

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has stopped the bombing of North Viet Nam pending an intensive reconnaissance survey of damage done and further top-level policy decisions, the Washington Post says in a dispatch from Saigon.

This was disclosed by Rear-Admiral Edward C. Outlaw, commander of the 7th Fleet carrier task force, during a visit aboard his flagship, Coral Sea, in the South China Sea, the Post says.

A two-day halt in air strikes against North Viet Nam had stirred speculation in Washington that the Johnson administration may be reinforcing its new bid to the North Vietnamese Communist leadership to begin talks on ending the war.

Santo Domingo UN STEPS IN WAR STEPPED UP

From UPI, AP

Heavy firing was reported by U.S. military sources in Santo Domingo Friday night, where the Dominican rebels began a sharp increase in attacks on American installations.

(In Washington, the state department described the situation as "dangerous.")

Heavy machine gun and snipers firing broke out across the Ozama River, apparently between rebels on the west bank and U.S. paratroopers on the east shore.

VERGE OF COLLAPSE

As the shaky truce in Santo Domingo seemed near the verge of collapse, the following events were taking place Friday:

● In New York, the Security Council of the United Nations called for a strict cease-fire in the Dominican Republic. The council voted to dispatch a representative to Santo Domingo to see that it was carried out. Two previous cease-fires, arranged first by the United Nations and then by the Organization of American States, have been only partially observed.

U.N. Secretary-General Thant said his military adviser, Maj. Gen. Indarjit Rikhye of India, would leave for Santo Domingo immediately.

● Honduran and Costa Rican troop contingents for an Inter-American security force arrived by air in Santo Domingo during

Killer's Rope Analysed

RCMP has been getting strong co-operation from residents in the Oakwood district in probing the murder of 14-year-old Susan French. (See also Page 18.)

Oakwood detachment has received a tremendous number of calls since the tragedy, a police spokesman said. A squad of 20 criminal investigation branch and uniformed men is checking out leads. There is enough information on hand to keep the squad going for weeks.

NO PRINTS

Police were unable to lift any prints from the rock believed to be the murder weapon, and found only prints of the murdered girl on her books.

A piece of three-eighths inch Manila rope, 15 feet long, that was used to bind the murdered girl's hands has been sent to Vancouver for analysis.

Inspector G. M. Mackay said Friday police were hoping that analysis would disclose the rope's original use.

No time of death was established at the coroner's inquest Thursday, but stomach content samples have been sent to the Vancouver city analyst in an attempt to pinpoint a time.

Whether the girl knew her assailant and went with him, or was forced by threats to the spot where she was found murdered, appears to be a tossup to police.

Why the killer was carrying the rope is a puzzle to police.

High on the police check-list in a search for new information are cars in the area and customers of the Elm-Belle House beer parlor on the night, and area residents.

Sex 'Sharks' Escape Net

VANCOUVER (CP)—Penal expert Jay Campbell says a law enforcement net—designed to catch sharks—lands harmless whales and allows sharks their freedom.

Mr. Campbell, director of research at a California corrections unit and a former British Columbia corrections worker, defines "sharks" as persons with a potential to commit dangerous sex crimes. The "whales" were persons who committed comparatively harmless offences—exhibitionists, Peeping Toms and homosexuals.

"We make such a big thing out of the minor sex offences that we waste all the energy and facilities that should be used for detaining and treating potentially dangerous people," he said in an interview Thursday.

Duncan Doctor:

Fallout In Smokes

DUNCAN (CP)—Dr. C. A. Colman-Porter, a Vancouver Island scientist, claims lung cancer is caused by radioactivity in tobacco, rather than nicotine or tar.

Dr. Colman-Porter, a teacher at Shawnigan Lake Boys' School, says tests he has conducted show a link between fallout from nuclear tests, tobacco and cancer.

In a paper presented to the Chemical Institute of Canada he said his tests on 10 popular brands of cigarettes showed American cigarettes made from tobacco nearest nuclear test areas had the highest radioactivity.

Canadian brands had a lower count, and British tobacco the lowest.

Canadian Art In Auction By Satellite

LONDON (CP)—A collection of early Canadian drawings is among the properties up for bids on both sides of the Atlantic in the world's first auction sale by television satellite May 24.

The sale, to be staged in the famed auction hall of Sotheby and Co. in London, will appear on television here and be relayed via the Early Bird space satellite to an American TV network.

The Canadian collection includes a volume of views of waterfalls drawn by Lt.-Col. Cookburn, a shoebush of Canadian woods, circa 1820, and 30 pencil and watercolor drawings of Canada by J. Rossbeck, 1828.

Long Prison Terms Asked for Baptists

HAVANA (AP)—Long prison terms were asked Friday for two United States Baptist missionaries accused of spying in Cuba for the United States.

Dr. Herbert Caudill, 61, of Omega, Ga., head of the Western Cuba Baptist Convention, denied spying. The other American on trial is Caudill's son-in-law, Rev. James David Fite, 31. They were arrested last month.

The prosecution asked a 30-year sentence for Caudill and 15 years for Fite. Sentences ranging from nine to 30 years were asked for the 32 Cuban Baptists also on trial.

Luis Manuel Aguirre Serrano, 46, a Cuban preacher, testified that an organization headed by Caudill was formed inside the church to fight Communism.

Caudill, for 35 years a resident of Cuba admitted illegally trading U.S. dollars for Cuban pesos to Cubans who needed foreign

China: Another Bomb

From CP, UPI

China announced the successful explosion Friday of its second nuclear device, saying it had developed nuclear weapons "for the purpose of coping with the nuclear blackmail and threats of the United States."

The official New China news agency reported the test took place "over" its remote western provinces.

The agency did not elaborate on the word "over," but nuclear physicists, including Dr. Ralph Lapp of the United States, had speculated that the second device would be dropped from a plane.

"China is conducting necessary nuclear tests within the limited limits and is developing the nuclear weapon for the purpose of coping with the nuclear blackmail and threats of the United States and for the purpose of abolishing all nuclear weapons," the agency said.

It called the test "another important achievement scored by the Chinese people in strengthening their national defence and safeguarding the security of their motherland and world peace."

Sell Canadians a Share

Overcome U.S.-Control Fears—Gordon

ALBION, Mich. (CP)—Finance Minister Walter Gordon set out Canada's "deeply rooted" fears of growing foreign control of the Canadian economy before an American audience Friday night.

Among measures he set out to overcome this was a suggestion that U.S. and European companies with large subsidiaries in Canada—including such companies as General Motors—offer voluntarily to turn over to Canadians "a 25 per cent participation with the promise that another 25 per cent or so would be offered to them in, say, 10 or 15 years."

He emphasized that such an offer would be taken up at current market values.

"We are not asking for any handouts."

In his speech to the Albion College regional meeting of the American Assembly, Mr. Gordon also spelled out steps taken by the government to ensure Canadian control over financial institutions and communications media.

"Troublesome and perplexing" problems arise from the high percentage of foreign ownership of important sectors of the Canadian economy, Mr. Gordon said.

"About 60 per cent of Canadian manufacturing industry is now controlled abroad, the predominant ownership being in the United States. Foreign control is even more pronounced in mining and smelting and in the petroleum and natural gas industries. The fact is that Canadians own a smaller share of their industry than the nationals of any other major industrialized country."

Mr. Gordon admitted the many benefits such investment has brought. It had enabled Canada to diversify the economy faster than would have been possible, opened the door for Canada to draw on the fruits of U.S. research and development programs and technical and managerial skills.

"Obviously, in a material sense, Canadians are better off for it."
